Heat Relief Due Tonight; 28 Die In East

Mercury Hits 100 On Coast

Mansfield's High Was 91

Relief from the stifling heat wave is due to reach Mansfield tonight or tomorrow, the weatherman promised today, as the death toll from the record-breaking temperatures climbed to 28 in the eastern states where the mercury went as high as 100 yesterday.

In Mansfield the high was 91.

A cool air mass is moving southeastward from Canada and had spread over states west of the Mississippi today. It will reach Ohio tonight or tomorrow, bringing lower temperatures for the week end, the forecasters said.

But the outlook for further movement of the cool air into the sweltering east and south is not good, federal weather bureau forecasters said. They promised another day of hot and sticky weather for most of the eastern and southern sections of the country.

Temperatures -- in the 90s over most of the area from the Rockies to the Atlantic Coast for the last week — hit record marks for the day in several cities yesterday. Readings of 100 were common throughout New England. Boston's 99 was a record for July 28.

Nine persons died in Washington from the heat as the capital baked in 98 degree temperatures. Some 83,000 federal and District of Columbia government employes were sent home early because of the oppressive heat.

The hot weather claimed the lives of six persons in Pennsylvania as the heat wave extended for the 11th day. Philadelphia's top mark was 95 and it was 92 in Pittsburgh and Harrisburgh.

NEW YORK DRENCHED

New York state also reported five heat deaths, including three in New York City. Two deaths in Albany were attributed to heart attacks induced by the hot weather. The 95.2 reading in New York City yesterday was the second highest for the date in the city's history. Poughkeepsie's 96 was the high mark for the state. A brief thunder storm drenched New York City and knocked out power lines and felled trees in some parts of Queens. Thundershowers brought temporary relief in other parts of the state.

Maine and Massachusetts each reported three heat deaths. In Portland, smoking and fire building in the Maine parched woodlands was banned for the third time this year. New England has not had a general heavy rainfall for more than two months.

Two deaths were reported in the current heat wave at Baltimore. At least 10 persons were treated for heat prostration. Heat prostrations were reported in other parts of the east, including 14 in Washington and one in Kearny, N. J.

Thunderstorms which swept northern Connecticut last night caused at least two damaging fires. One person was killed by lightning. Hail damaged tobacco crops for the second consecutive week.

Steam Kills Tiny Child

CHICAGO — (INS) — A 4-year-old girl was found suffocated by steam and 90 degree heat today in the small Chicago apartment she shared with her mother and police held the building owner and janitor pending an inquest.

Police said Mrs Anna Capizzi, 26, found her daughter, Louise, dead on the sofa in their apartment when she returned home from work at a cafeteria where she is a waitress.

Police said steam had poured into the one and a half room apartment from "an improperly capped" radiator which apparently had been connected with the building's hot water boiler.

Police said the child apparently was awakened by the heat and had tried vainly to escape from the deadly steam.

TOM CLARK

J. H. McGRATH

Clark To Be New Justice

McGrath Named Att'y General

WASHINGTON— (AP) — President Truman's surprise choice of Attorney General Tom Clark for the Supreme Court and Senator J. Howard McGrath for attorney general gained general approval of senators today.

Although the President told his news conference yesterday Clark and McGrath hadn't finally agreed to the shift, there seemed little doubt the two will announce their formal acceptance next week.

Clark, 49 year old Texas lawyer, would fill the court place left vacant by the death of Associate Justice Frank Murphy.

Moving into Clark's place as the nation's chief legal watchdog would be McGrath, 45-year-old chairman of the Democratic national committee, former solicitor general and former governor of Rhode Island.

If arrangements can be made this week-end for appointment of his Senate successor, McGrath is expected to agree to accept the cabinet post.

Friends said once he is confirmed, McGrath will resign as Democratic chairman. That would leave the post open for William M. Boyle jr., formerly of Kansas City, who has been serving as executive assistant at a $30,000 yearly salary.

Clark indicated in a statement that he is ready to take the court post.

SAYS HE'S HONORED

Observing that the President had bestowed a great honor on him by offering the place, Clark said:

"It is with humility that I approach it. Such a position is the greatest challenge that can be placed before a lawyer. I hope I am worthy of the honor the President has paid me."

McGrath said he wants to talk to his family and friends in Rhode Island before he decides finally.

Despite his position as Democratic national chairman, the Rhode Island senator seemed likely to escape any serious criticism in Senate consideration of his appointment.

Whether Clark would get by without some harsh words remained in doubt. Chairman McCarran (D-Nev) of the Senate judiciary committee, which will handle both nominations, has had some recent brushes with the attorney general.

Church Lets Contract

First Lutheran Work To Start Next Week

Work on a major remodeling project at the First Lutheran church expected to cost approximately $158,000 will get underway next week, it was announced today.

George H. Smith, acting chairman of the building committee, said a contract for $32,000 for remodeling the basement and erecting a building at the rear of the parish house lot to house the new heating plant had been awarded to Ivan Bauer, Mansfield contractor. Bauer plans to start excavating early next week.

The church council, at a meeting last night, approved redecorating and revamping the auditorium and chancel of the church. A contract for this work was awarded to John W. Winterich of Cleveland. Winterich will begin work as soon as materials can be assembled.

This second contract calls for redecorating the auditorium, painting the Sunday school rooms and stairwells, varnishing all woodwork, and remodeling the chancel.

Plans for the new heating plant are expected to be completed this week end and the contract for this work awarded next week.

The church hopes to have all work finished by next May 1.

Reds Blast U. S. Judge

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Moscow is directing a stream of its choicest epithets at Associate Supreme Court Justice William O. Douglas for his vacation visit to Iran.

A Moscow radio broadcast to Iran recorded today by American official monitors referred to Douglas as an "arrogant speculator" who was accompanied by a "gang of spies" on a mountain climbing jaunt near the Soviet border.

Douglas, accompanied by his son, left in June on a summer tour of Iran and other Middle East areas. He announced in advance he planned to climb peaks in Azerbaijan, close to the Russian frontier. Moscow immediately voiced suspicion but did not really warm up to the subject until the latest broadcast to the Iranians in the Persian language.

Douglas, said Moscow, was accompanied by a "dozen devils — that is, 13 Americans," who were really United States army officers who were disguised in mountaineering outfits.

WHAT HEAT WAVE?—Encased snugly in his fur-lined overcoat, galoshes, heavy gloves, and stocking cap, James Dickson (left above) wonders what all this heat-wave talk is about. It's just a comfortable zero degrees where he works four hours a day in the "frozen room" at Mansfield Frosted Foods. (Editor's Note: We are not sure how the character at right got into this picture layout but his face is familiar. He's News-Journal Reporter Robert Schweitz and there is a suspicion he would have spent all yesterday afternoon mugging for the camera in the frozen room at Frosted Foods if a man hadn't come along and attempted to stamp "Gov't Inspected" on his forehead in purple ink.)

Heat Doesn't Bother Him

He Just Bundles Up In An Overcoat!

By ROBERT SCHWEITZ

Think of a huge iceberg in the middle of the arctic ocean. Pretend you're sitting on this iceberg and eating a popsicle. Now, take off your shoes and dip your feet into the frigid water.

If your goose-pimples have goose-pimples you've succeeded in finding out how soft things are for some people.

While most of us are crazy with the heat James Dickson, 73 Clifton avenue, wears an overcoat all day long. Not only an overcoat, but galoshes, and gloves.

Dickson works in the frozen food room of the Mansfield Frozen Foods plant at 100 East Fifth street.

The temperature in the room in which he works is "0" degrees. And he has access to another room in which it's 12 degrees below zero.

Not only is Dickson in the frozen room for about four hours a day, but he gets paid for it too.

He says he never gets a cold because he dresses correctly. So while you're sipping that long cool one, knowing relief is only temporary, don't despair. Think of next winter when most of us can go inside to warm up.

Dickson will have nothing to look forward to except going outside where it's a warm 10 above zero.

Will Probe Dock Strike

WASHINGTON — (UP) — House investigators said today they are looking into the Hawaiian dock strike to find out whether it fits into a plan laid down in Moscow to seize worldwide control of shipping.

A member of the House un-American Activities committee said a number of witnesses have been scheduled for closed door hearings. The first — Joseph Curran, president of the CIO National Maritime union — will be heard Tuesday.

At a later date, this member said, the committee will hear an ex-communist who was in Moscow during the late 1920's. This witness, he explained, was present at an international communist meeting at which plans were dismaritime industry.

"We think there may be a pattern in the dock strikes in Hawaii and London," this member said.

File Charge In 'Racket'

Ohio Banker Keeps Silence

NEW YORK — (UP) — Dennison Duble, Cincinnati banker, was formally charged today with conspiracy to contrive a lottery for his part in helping racketeers rig a $50,000,000 - a - year policy game.

The felony charge was filed at 10:40 a. m. against the respected, white - haired banker in the Elizabeth street police station. He rode to the police station from a hotel in the custody of detectives from the district attorney's office.

He chewed gum and chatted with the two detectives, Edward Fitzpatrick and James Cashman, while he was being booked. He was not handcuffed.

Duble declined to talk to reporters. His picture was taken by news photographers who stood behind the booking desk.

Duble said nothing during the proceedings. All the information was given by the detectives, who then took him to police headquarters for photographing and finger printing.

He was to be arraigned later today.

Defends Mine Union

WASHINGTON — (UP) — Thomas Kennedy vice president of the United Mine Workers, said today that the communists "haven't a chance" of infiltrating his union.

UPPER HOUSE OK's PACT

PARIS —(AP)— The upper house of the French Parliament ratified the Atlantic pact, 284-20, early today.

Phony Story Helps Youth

INDIANAPOLIS —(UP)— The Indianapolis Star ran a phony story today in the interests of mercy.

The newspaper put out a special one "copy" edition just for 10-year-old Jerry Lee Wildman. In the story, he read that important people, including the governor and mayor, were betting he will get well.

The regular edition carried the same story. But beside it was another which told readers that the bright-eyed youngster hasn't a chance to recover from the cancer that is killing him.

Dries Crow As Old Crow On Way Out

FRANKFORT, Ky. —(INS)— Franklin county, Ky., the home of such well-known brands of whisky as Old Crow, Old Taylor and Old Granddad, will will hold its first local option election in thirty days.

The election petition was was signed today by over 600 registered voters in the district — more than twice as many as are necessary—who wish to keep liquor from being sold in that area.

As a matter of fact, a four-to-one victory is predicted for the drys in the county at election time.

'Love-Nest' Defendant Fined $250

Pleads Guilty Before Judge Cramer

One of seven defendants arrested in the "love-nest" raid at 34½ West Fourth street July 2 pleaded guilty in juvenile court today and was fined $250 and costs and placed on probation three years.

He was Guy Long, 27, who lived at the Fourth street address. Judge Stuart H. Cramer imposed the fine. Long was charged with contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

Long was scheduled to go on trial before a jury Tuesday. With his change of plea today, the jury will not be called until Aug. 11, when another of the defendants, Joseph Ralph Barto, 27, of 34½ West Fourth street, will go on trial on a similar charge.

Judge Cramer told Long that he must find employment, refrain from going into places where intoxicants are sold, that he is not to associate with girls under 16, and must maintain proper conduct.

Long was told that any violation would result in a sentence. Judge Creamer said he assessed the fine because the defendant was not the original contributor to the delinquency of a girl involved in the case.

The 13-year-old girl who appeared as a witness at the hearing said she had visited the apartment about 100 times.

The seven defendants were arrested by police in a raid on Fourth street last July 2. All the others, except John J. Weber, 22, of 264 Park avenue east, have pleaded innocent, and requested separate trials by jury.

Weber has not been sentenced. Attorneys George W. Biddle and Fred Rader represented Long while Assistant Prosecutor James J. Mayer represented the state.

Girl Would Trade Eyes For Fiancee

OBERRAMSTADT, Germany — (UP) — A pretty German fraulein today offered both of her eyes or a year's free work as a dentist in return for passage to California to visit her GI fiance before he dies.

The heartbroken girl, Ly Elyse Broeckmann, said she has less then eight weeks to make the trip under the GI Fiancee act. She must get to the U.S. by Sept. 21, when her permission to leave Germany expires.

Her fiance, Charles Eller, 27, a former master sergeant, was reported in dispatches from Fresno to be totally disabled from the effects of pneumonia and tuberculosis.

Eller, longing for his German sweetheart, offered either one of his own blue eyes to anyone who would help him bring Ly from Germany.

"No, no," the girl cried when she was told of Eller's offer. "Take my brown eyes instead."

Seeks Post As Ohio Treasurer

COLUMBUS — (AP) — Rep. John L. Smith (D-Summit) announced today he will seek the Democratic nomination for state treasurer next May. He is serving his first term in the 98th General assembly.

Forces To Remain On Alert

Lift Claimed Lives of 59

BERLIN—(UP)—The Berlin airlift, the massive aerial supply run which cracked the Soviet blockade and dealt Russia her greatest defeat of the East-West cold war, will be eliminated gradually beginning next Monday.

The United States and Great Britain, in a joint statement by their military governments, announced today the sliding-scale demobilization of the greatest peacetime military operation in history.

The western allies emphasized that their air forces would stand alert to renew the airlift "if necessary"—meaning if Russia again should reimpose the land blockade of Berlin.

A skeleton force of American and British planes will stand by and make occasional runs to Berlin as "training exercises" to keep in trim, and to carry on in an emergency until the whole vast armada can be thrown back into action.

DEFEATED RUSSIANS

It was the airlift which, at a cost of millions of dollars and 59 American and British lives, convinced the Russians they could not starve or freeze out west Berlin's 2,500,000 inhabitants.

And in the long range strategic view, it proved, in the words of its commander, Maj. Gen. William H. Hunner, that "given the airplanes, we can supply anywhere in the world with any amount in any kind of weather."

The decision to end the airlift, the allies said, was prompted by western Berlin's favorable supply position.

Rail, road and canal links between Berlin and the western zones of Germany were reopened —with some supply interruptions —last May 12 after the Soviet blockade had lasted 327 days.

The announcement said the end of the airlift will not cause all supply planes to be withdrawn from Germany.

Air bases will be maintained so that the airlift can be resumed if necessary, the announcement said.

The airlift began June 26, 1948, seven days after the Soviets began their blockade of Berlin. Two flying Fortresses landed at Templehoff airdrome in the American sector with emergency supplies.

From that humble beginning the airlift grew into a cargo fleet of 380 planes that roared into Berlin, day and night, fair weather and foul. The tonnage climbed to 4,000 a day, 5,000 and finally to an average of more than 8,000.

No Troops For Europe

WASHINGTON —(AP)— Defense Secretary Johnson told Congress today no additional American troops will be sent to Europe as part of the military aid program.

In a statement prepared for the House foreign affairs committee setting forth the national military establishment's views on the legislation, Johnson said he wanted to make one point "absolutely clear."

"That is," he said, "that under this program no United States troops will be sent abroad to employ the equipment we will provide.

"This military assistance program is solely an equipment and a technical and training assistance program. The only United States personnel involved will be a strictly limited number of technical and training specialists to assist and advise the participating countries."

Johnson led off a parade of the armed services' big guns supporting President Truman's drive for the $1,450,000,000 program to help arm friendly nations.

Move Not Against The 'Little Man'

PROCTORVILLE — (AP) — Gov. Frank J. Lausche says his campaign against gambling is directed at "the crooked racketeer gambler — not the man who gambles in small amounts."

Lausche's latest blast against gamblers came yesterday at the Lawrence county fair. He told a newsman:

"I have no direct concern with the man who gambles on small amounts. But my record speaks for itself. I have closed up the Mounds club and I have acted time after time to curb the crooked racketeer gambler."

Raincoats, Umbrellas Are Uniform For Today

Weather Defies Tradition, Village Pleads For Rain

WAYNESBURG, Pa. — (AP) — The good people of Waynesburg looked in vain today for the rain that tradition says almost always falls on July 29. But die-hards were not giving up until the final moment.

Blue skies and a brassy sun hung over the western Pennsylvania town as residents resorted to all the tricks in folklore to bring on even the slightest drizzle.

Members of the fire department were fining motorists 25 cents if they hadn't washed their cars today. It always rains when you do that, you know.

Many carried umbrellas. A few had raincoats and some wore rubber boots. Here and there a pretty miss was attired in a snappy bathing suit.

But there wasn't a rain cloud in the sky. The weatherman wasn't very co-operative. His best prediction: a slight possibility of a brief thundershower.

But a thundershower, no matter how brief, will be okay with John Daily, who is an attorney on any day but July 29.

John put his lawbooks aside and began a 24-hour vigil shortly after midnight. He kept an anxious eye on the sky, taking time out now and then to get reports from his aides spotted through town.

But now and then, John would reassure his fellow Waynesburgers. He's the official "rainmaker" in Waynesburg, you see, and a lot of folks take stock in what John says. If he says it'll rain on July 29, that's good enough for them — they'll bet more than the hat which John wagers each year.

"Just look at the records and you don't have to worry about your money," John told the early birds who helped him with his vigil. "Why, it s failed to rain on July 29 only five times in the past 72 years."

Daily has bet a hat with such fellows as Bing Crosby and Jack Dempsey. This year his bet is with Vince Johnson, a Pittsburgh (Post - Gazette) newspaper columnist. Johnson says he's so sure it won't rain he'll pitch hay on the main street if he loses.

Daily took up his rain watch at the courthouse. A few fellow barristers were on hand to lend him moral support. The courthouse janitor was decked out in a new suit, and a fine raincoat — it's his job to ring the courthouse bell when and if the first drop of rain falls.

In the middle of the street was a load of hay. Farmers well know nothing tempts the skies to open up like a load of new mown hay standing out in the open.

Urges Curbs On Powers Of Miners

Claims UMW Now Directs Economy

WASHINGTON — (AP) — A coal operator complained yesterday the government is letting the United Mine Workers direct the nation's economy.

Justin Potter, Kentucky mine owner, told the Senate banking committee the union "can dominate the country if it is not stopped and that right now."

He cited as an example of the union's "monopolistic power" the present three - day work week which UMW chief John L. Lewis ordered for miners. He also contended that the UMW "by its threats, wields power" greater than that of the states

"But the government, so far, seems to sit idly by and let the mine union manage, by both direction and indirection, the economy of the greatest country on the face of the earth, ' he added:

"The committee is looking into coal operations, the three - day week and the UMW's activities. The study was asked by Senator Robertson (D-Va).

Potter, whose home is in Nashville, Tenn., is president of the Crescent Coal company, at Central City, Ky

He said the UMW "by written or spoken word, can shut down one of the nation's great industries, it can dictate how much coal the nation can have and when it can have it. It can shut down industries because of lack of fuel, it can make the railroads take off trains and lay off workers, it can dominate the country if it is not stopped and that right now"

Rolla D Campbell, Huntington, W Va, general counsel for the Island Creek Coal company, West Virginia, said the situation "is obviously deplorable and intolerable"

He said the UMW has a "labor supply monopoly" which it is misusing and "something must be done" to alter this condition

Jesse V. Sullivan, Charleston, W. Va., testified "the communists are deeply interested in the activities of the miners in West Virginia and elsewhere."

Sullivan, secretary of the West Virginia Coal association, said a pamphlet issued by the communist party of West Virginia "outlines certain demands" by Lewis, indicating the communists possess advance information which the mine owners are unable to obtain

Firm Being Probed, Submits 2 Low Bids

WASHINGTON — (AP) — The Lustron corporation manufacturer of prefabricated houses, is apparent low bidder on two big government housing projects, says President Carl G Strandlund

Strandlund's Columbus firm is under congressional investigation in connection with $34,000,000 of Reconstruction Finance corporation loans it has received Strandlund didn't give details of the housing projects

Judge Medina Pleads He's Tired, Blasts Red Defense

NEW YORK — (AP) — Judge Harold R. Medina left the bench temporarily in the communist conspiracy trial yesterday after saying he was "physically and mentally incapable of going through much more" defense wrangling.

"I must take a recess now and lie down for a minute," the ruddy-faced jurist said.

He returned to the courtroom 10 minutes later and the taril resumed

The judge's walkout came after one of the hundreds of verbal flareups that have occurred since the federal court trial of 11 top communist officials began more than six months ago

U S. attorney John F X McGohey had protested that a defense lawyer, Richard E Gladstein, was repeatedly interrupting the cross-examination, of a witness, Ohio communist official Anthony Krchmarek.

McGohey also charged that Harry Sacher, another defense counsel, had just "gotten up twice and coached the witness '

Sacher replied heatedly that he was being accused of unprofessional and improper conduct He demanded an apology and moved for a mistrial

It was during this exchange that the judge, who has accused the defense lawyers of trying to wear out his patience, spoke of his mental and physical fatigue.

Then, denying the mistrial motion, he asked why Sacher had disobeyed the court's instructions to limit his objections to the word "I object"

Sacher said he had forgotten the judge's instructions because the government prosecutor showed laxity in following them

"I suppose," Medina said, "my mention of my state of fatigue has only acted as a spur to you."

Cedar Rust Is Apple Enemy

By DEAN HALLIDAY
(By Central Press)

Red cedars and apple trees don't make good neighbors. If you have them on your home grounds you are apt to have an infestation of cedar rust, which will prove harmful to you favorite apple trees.

The disease is a back - and-fourth feud between cedars and apples The cedar rust sends out its spores in early spring in the form of orange horns A large gall covered with these spore horns may look like a small orange. The spores are carried by air currents to members of the apple family including crabapples and hawthorns

In July and August spores from orange cups produced on the backs of apple leaves by the spring infection reinfect the cedars and produce mature galls

The accompanying Garden-Graph shows the effect of cedar rust on a mature apple as well as the gall on a branch of red cedar.

There is no known spray that will completely control this pest when it attacks apple trees. Some cases of spraying with lime-sulphur have been noted where it was impossible to remove the cedars, but control was not entirely satisfactory.

It generally is necessary to remove cedar trees for a considerable area around apple plantings to give any degree of protection Rust spores may be carried as much as a mile by the wind Bechtel's crab is particularly susceptible to cedar rust, so if you have one and there are cedars nearby watch out for trouble.

New Library Book Tells What It Is

Mansfielders who saw the recent movie, "IT HAPPENS EVERY SPRING," will be interested in reading the book of the same title by Valentine Davis, who also wrote "MIRACLE ON 34TH STREET."

This fiction selection is among new books for adults which will be available at the Mansfield Public Library Monday. The book is the gay story of a college instructor of chemistry and of big league baseball. Just as Vernon Simpson, the instructor, was completing a new formula, a baseball sailed in the window of the laboratory and wrecked his work. The loss to science may have been great, but the gain to the St. Louis baseball team was astounding.

FRATERNITY VILLAGE, by Ben Ames Williams, brings together 12 of Williams' popular stories about the small Maine town which he calls Fraternity in the stories. The first was written in 1919 and the last in 1940, and all have appeared in magazines. The basis of selection for this book is varied, and so are the stories, but they are bound together by the setting, and by some of the chief characters.

WRITES FOLK STORY

THE GREEN ROLLER, by Roark Bradford, is a folk novel of the south. The Green Roller was a man of God, who preached along the bayous and streams, and in the cities and towns of Louisiana for 100 years, and, when his time came to go to glory, was sad because he had hardly made a scratch on the surface of sin.

But the Lord reminded him that he had trained 12 men to carry on with preaching and was not to worry because he had left them some need to preach. Much of the book is made up of the poetry and fire of the sermons the 12 younger men preached.

Other Fiction:

LEGEND OF A LADY, by Andrews; JUDAS CAT, by Davis, JOURNEY INTO SPRING, by Clewes.

SIAM DOCTOR, by Jaques M. May, recounts the experiences of Dr. May a French surgeon, who went to Bangkok as chief surgeon of the French hospital and physician to the royal family of Siam. He found a strange country and people and stranger beliefs. His book is filled with their stories, some humerous, some tragic.

CALIFORNOIS. by Joseph Mora, presents the saga of the vaqueros, the first cowboys of America. The author, because of his Spanish ancestry, has long been familiar with the stories of the old timers, who knew California before the Gringos came, and he tells of the vanished life of ranch and mission. and illustrates the tales with his own drawings.

THE SOCIAL POLITICS OF FEPC, by Louis C. Kesselman, revolves around the National Council for a permanent FEPC, and gives the inside story of one of the most exciting legislative campaigns of recent years.

Other Non-fiction:

HOW TO GROW ANNUALS, by Robbins; OUR SUN, by Menzel; BISMARCK EPISODE, by Grenfell; CHARTER FOR WORLD TRADE, by Wilcox; PEOPLE'S SONG BOOK, by Hille; RODIN, by Adams; ANTIQUE FURNITURE OF THE WALNUT PERIOD, by Symonds and Ormsbee; HOMEMAKING CAN BE EASY, by Tolg; HISTORICAL STATISTICS OF THE U. S., by the Bureau of the Census.

Cane-Wielder Battles Cars, Police For One-Quarter Hour

CINCINNATI — (UP) — Charges of assault and battery and resisting an officer were filed yesterday against a man who pounded the hood of a passing automobile with a cane and then battled with police at a busy downtown intersection.

Police and several bystanders subdued Edward Pratt, 29, after a street battle Wednesday that started when Pratt whacked an auto over the hood with his cane as it passed in front of him. When Patrolman Elmer Reis attempted to take him into custody, Pratt attacked the officer.

An optician and a doorman at a nearby hotel went to Reis' aid while other bystanders called police.

A score of police ducked Pratt's swinging cane and subdued the gaunt six-footer. Traffic at the busy downtown intersection was tied up 15 minutes while Pratt battled with police.

Pratt said he remembered nothing of the incident. He said he "gets bad spells" at times because of shellshock and a back injury he suffered while serving during World War II.

Missing Ohioans Found In 'Bush'

COLUMBUS — (AP) — A Columbus man and his daughter, reported lost yesterday in northern Ontario where they were vacationing, have been found and are safe, a member of the family reported here last night.

The missing persons were A. H. Knoblauch and his daughter, Mrs. Charles Yost. Police at Plevna, Ont., said they had been lost in the bush near Sand Lake, three miles from Plevna and 180 miles northeast of Toronto.

Goodrich Workers Vote For Strike

AKRON — (AP) — Workers in plants of B. F. Goodrich company are voting overwhelming for strike action, headquarters of the CIO United Rubber Workers reported today.

Negotiations for a new contract broke down June 14, but the present contract cannot be cancelled until Aug. 24. Goodrich employs about 17,000 production workers in plants in seven states.

Daily Patient Cost Hits $12 In State

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The average daily cost of caring for a patient in Ohio's hospitals during 1948 was $12.56. That's the figure in annual reports submitted today to the Ohio Department of Health.

Patients spent a total of 6,860,892 days in Ohio hospitals. Total hospital operating costs were $86,170,437.35.

AGED ATTORNEY DIES

PIQUA — (AP) — Edward H. Allen, 75, a practicing attorney in Miami county for 50 years, died yesterday.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

STAR PERFORMER—One of the smallest planes ever built for the Air Force, the Northrup X-4 is a star performer in secret projects at California's Muroc Lake air base as it streaks through air on test flight to explore flight characteristics of high subsonic zone. Built with no horizontal stabilizer or elevator, the bantam wing measures approximately 25 feet from wing tip to wing tip.

False Modesty, Fear Called 'Firm Friends' of Cancer

Cancer's four firm friends are ignorance, fear, gullibility, and false modesty, according to the Richland County health department.

The health department contends many cases of cancer develop into the advanced stage because the patient is not familiar with the early signs of the disease.

"Cancer begins insidiously and rarely gives rise to pain or other alarming symptoms until the disease is far advanced," the health department bulletin says. "Learn the danger signal. Arm yourself against this desease," it advises.

"Many patients suffer from such all unreasoning fear of cancer that they do not seek advice even when they suspect that they have the disease. Ostrich-like they bury their heads in the sand and refuse to face the truth."

Gullibility on the part of many cancer patients make them easy prey for more than 5,000 quack "cures" of various kinds now on the market, the publication says.

False modesty is a factor which influences some cancer patients to let precious time go by. They feel that presence of the disease is something shameful. Usually they fail to consult a physician until the disease is far advanced.

Delay on the part of the patient in seeking medical aid is directly responsible for a large proportion of the 180,000 deaths from cancer which are now occurring annually in the United States, the bulletin added.

Union Charge Ruled Invalid

WARREN — (AP) — An affidavit of prejudice filed against Common Pleas Judge G. H. Birrell of Warren was dismissed yesterday by Chief Justice Carl V. Weygandt of the Ohio Supreme Court.

Judge Birrell then voluntarily removed himself from hearings in connection with a strike dispute at the Taylor-Winfield plant.

The prejudice charge was made by Frank Motter, president of the CIO-United Electrical Workers local at the plant. The company has filed motions charging 59 defendants with violating a court order restraining illegal picketing.

Plans Light Plane Trip Across Ocean

WICHITA, Kas. — (AP) — Capt. John Brondello, 36 - year - old Italian flier and engineer, says he will attempt a non - stop flight in a single engined plane from Lisbon, Portugal, to New York in mid - August.

His plane, a specially equipped Beechcraft Bonanaza, is ready. Brondello said yesterday he will leave in it this weekend for Europe, via northern flight route of Newfoundland, Greenland, Ireland and Britain.

Home Economics Teachers Needed

Three home economics teachers are needed to teach in county schools, Supt Boyd Robinson said today.

Required are vocational home economics teachers at Springfield and Butler, and a general home economics teacher at Bellville high school, Robinson said.

SEEK MORE IRON LUNGS

MARMET, W. Va — (AP)—Additional iron lungs for the use of infantile paralysis patients have been requested by Marmet hospital officials.

Reveals Fraud In Recruiting

CLEVELAND — (AP) — Charges of questionable tactics in a national guard enlistment campaign two years ago were under review today by guard officers here.

The action followed a statement by William Diltz, a former guardsman who dined at the White House as reward for winning a state recruiting campaign in 1947.

He said young candidates were persuaded to sign blank enlistment papers after being led to believe they were entering the guard for only one year. Later the paper were filled out for three years, Diltz added.

UN Chief Protests Spy Charge

Warns Against Rumors, Alarms

LAKE SUCCESS, N. Y. — (INS) — Acting U. N. Secretary General Byron Price struck back yesterday at charges that the 59-nation body is a nest for subversive elements. He declared that under the charter there is no place "for spies of any nationality."

Price made his declaration a day after calling on the United States government to disavow "irresponsible and unfounded attacks" on U. N., a protest aimed at recent testimony in the Senate judiciary sub-committee by an unidentified witness.

The acting secretary general at a weekly news conference strongly endorsed a resolution by the U. N staff committee condemning the anti-U. N. campaign and expressing confidence in the secretary general as a whole.

Price counselled the 3,000 secretariat members at Lake Success not to worry unduly "about the present epidemic of rumors and alarms."

An answer from U. S. Secretary of State Dean Acheson to Price's letter was still awaited at Lake Success The State department spokesman already has cast doubt on the validity of the committee's testimony. In his latest statement, Price said:

"Some of the recent charges have involved vague hints or open allegations of espionage. The whole world must understand that under the explicit terms of the charter there can be no place in the secretariat for spies of any nationality.

"It is the responsibility of the secretary-general to weigh most scrupulously every individual charge of misconduct and act accordingly.

"It is a part of his responsibility to reject attempted terrorization by gossips and marplots, and to make certain that he is not stampeded into unjust action on the basis of flimsy insinuations unsupported by dependable and convincing evidence.

"I know that with regard to these elemental considerations, there is no misunderstanding between the administration and the staff; and that no staff member who is performing his or her duties ably and in accordance with the terms of the charter will worry unduly about the present epidemic of rumors and alarms."

Naval Officer Claims U. S. Should Prepare Its Defense

SALEM, Ill. — (INS) — A top naval officer declared yesterday that the United States should organize civilian defense against atomic attack "while we still have a breathing spell."

Admiral W H P Blandy, commander-in-chief of the Atlantic fleet, made this statement before the Soldiers' and Sailors' reunion He said

"We should lose no time in organizing our civil defense, in preparation for direct attack against the United States, including attack with atomic bombs, while we still have a breathing spell before a possible enemy nation acquires atomic bombs and the long-range planes for a world-wide delivery service.

"The civil defense organization must educate our people to the real dangers of the atom bomb, and the limits of those dangers, so that intelligent action in the actual emergency may take the place of hysteria and chaos"

Blandy was the director of "Operation Crossroads" — the post-war test of the atomic bomb at Bikini atoll.

Lausche Swings Veto 'Axe' on Ohio Municipal Court Bill

Disapproves Lack of Conformity

Would Impair Enforcement

COLUMBUS — (AP) — The uniform municipal court bill received the veto axe yesterday.

Gov. Frank J. Lausche delivered his disapproval in a message to the 98th General assembly that said he found "serious non-conformity" in the measure.

The governor said the "general objectives of the bill were extremely laudable." But, he said, the bill "as finally adopted has failed substantially to attain its goal."

He pointed to the situation in Hamilton county, where he said the bill would have created a "junior common pleas court" with jurisdiction in all of Hamilton county, except in the villages of Harrison and Loveland.

"The jurisdiction of mayors and justices of the peace would be completely terminated July 1, 1951," Lausche wrote.

He said similar situations would have prevailed in Marion, Knox and Coshocton counties.

"I am convinced," he continued, "that it is a serious error to establish new courts having characteristics of a common pleas court, with limited jurisdiction.

"I am also convinced that enforcement of law and order would be impaired if the law enforcement officials of outlying municipalities would be required to leave their municipalities, and present their causes in the centrally located municipal court of Cincinnati."

The governor also said under the bill Cuyahoga county would have four municipal courts — in Lakewood, Garfield Heights, Euclid and Cleveland.

This, he said, obviously was non-conformity.

Lausche also hit the provisions of the bill that placed no civil service guardianship over employes of municipal courts outside Cleveland.

He also disapproved what he said was creation of new courts where they are "not needed or desired."

The bill would have created new courts in Ashland, Delaware, Greenville, Lancaster, Mount Vernon, Washington Court House, Coshocton, Sidney, Euclid, Garfield Heights and Bellevue.

Swim Class Registrations Well Over 1948 Enrollment

Red Cross swimming classes in Richland county, for the summer will top last year's mark by several hundred, Gerald Coron, water safety and first aid director, believes.

For the first term of this season's program, 1,450 have been registered. All classes in the county last year numbered only 1,200, Coron said.

Classes are held at Shelby, Woodland pool, Hidden Hollow camp, Camp Mowana and at Liberty park. The largest registration is at Liberty pool.

Registrations for the second term are now being taken. The term will start Aug. 2. Reservations for the classes may be made at the chapter house, 309 Park avenue west.

In addition to the regular courses there will be a five-day course for pre-school children for one to five years. Mothers may accompany their children into the pool for this class.

Warns Against Drugs In Food

CHICAGO —(UP)— The addition of sulfa drugs to poultry feed may endanger flock health and and egg production, according to an editorial in the Journal of the American Veterinary Medical Association.

The editorial questioned the advisability of adding the drugs, designed to prevent certain poultry diseases.

The "wholesale mixing of drugs with feed" raises some "disturbing questions" it was said, among them:

"Will the parasites and bacteria develop a resistance to the drugs?"

"Will (flock owners) become careless about management practices and simply keep their birds continually drugged?"

Sanitation, good management, proper immunization, accurate diagnosis and specific treatment will always be the most effective and economical means of disease control," the editorial said.

Charge Boy In Slaying

CHICAGO — (UP) — Fifteen-year-old Robert Munday was indicted yesterday for the hanging of little Tommy Laux, 4, and State's Attorney John Boyle said that he hoped to arrange a legal course which would lead to dismissal of the indictment.

Munday has admitted to police that he hanged the little Laux boy July 6th in "Hang Men Noose club," a young boys' "clubroom" in the unfloored basement of the south side apartment building where the Munday and Laux families lived.

The indictment, charging Munday with murder, was returned before Chief Justice John McDermott of the criminal court.

Boyle said that he would confer with Juvenile Court Judge Robert Jerome Dunne to see if some arrangement can be made to have young Munday committed to the newly-opened state reformatory for juvenile offenders at Sheridan, Ill.

TRANSPORT FARES RAISED

TOLEDO — (AP) — Bus and streetcar riders here today began paying higher fares. Five tokens now cost 45 cents.

Jail 160 In Vice Raid

MAPLE SHADE, N. J. — (AP) — One-hundred and-sixty men were arrested and $40,000 confiscated here yesterday in a state police raid on an armed gambling joint.

Despite an armored station in which police said they found a revolver and pistol, the 18 raiders captured every occupant of the one-story concrete-block building without firing a shot.

Listed officially as a plumbing warehouse, officers found the interior to contain "several gross" of dice, several cartons of playing cards, scratch sheets, blackboards listing every major race track in the country, a ticker tape system with an underground wire, and slot machines.

Police said most of the players came from Philadelphia and Camden — only 10 miles away— and there was evidence that a limousine service had been bringing many of them here.

They also said they expected to connect the local gamblers with a New York ring.

DAV Names Convention Delegates

16 To Represent Chapter, Auxiliary

Sixteen members of Mansfield Chapter 21, Disabled American Veterans, and its auxiliary, are expected to attend the DAV state convention at Columbus next week end, Commander Walter Bogantz said yesterday.

The convention, scheduled for July 29, 30 and 31, is expected to be the largest state convention in DAV history, local officers said.

Ohio DAV chapters have reached an all - time high in membership and have lead the nation in membership for the twelfth consecutive year, Bogantz said.

One of the features of the convention will be a chapter service officers' school which will be conducted by 15 national service officers of the organization.

Harry Honse has been selected by the Mansfield chapter to attend the school.

Members of the local chapter who would like to attend the convention should contact Adj. R. E. O'Leary before next Saturday, Bogantz announced.

Election of state commander and other officers will be held at the close of the convention.

The DAV's national convention will be held in Cleveland, Aug. 14 through 21.

Sues Barber In 'Twisting'

CLEVELAND — (AP) — An east side barber is being sued for $25,000 on charges he put a crick in the neck of an 18-month old baby.

A common pleas court petition says the child, David Nelson, now has his head at a 30 degree angle and is unable to move it right or left.

The action was filed by the baby's father, Edward Nelson against Charles Sparino. While giving the baby his first haircut on June 24, the suit alleges, Sparino twisted the child's head.

JOBLESS CLAIMS RISE

GALION — There are 598 continued claims reported by the Galion office of the Ohio Bureau of Unemployment following the receipt of 163 initial claims for benefits last week.

"Now let's see. Two 3 minute eggs are six minutes"

Tiny Infant Amazes Doctors As She Battles For Her Life

SYDNEY, Australia — (UP) — Mary Gabrielle McGrath weighed only 26½ ounces when she was born three months prematurely.

Ten weeks later, doctors disclosed the unique birth after the child had thrived and weighed nearly three pounds. They predicted she would develop normally.

Some doctors believed this may be close to a record of some sort.

The doctor attending the baby explained: "Unless the period of pregnancy is at least 26 weeks, a child's chances of survival are remote.

"Pregnancy in this case was 25 weeks and three days. I know of no other case in medical history of such a premature child, weighing so little, having lived so long.

"I expect the baby will live and grow into a perfectly normal child. She had a normal birth without any complications."

Hospital officials would not give details earlier because survival of a baby born in such circumstances is rare.

The professor of obstetrics at Sydney University, Dr. B. T. Mayes, said:

"I know of only two cases of babies born at 26 weeks who have survived. We never regard a baby as having a reasonable chance unless it has reached 26 weeks gestation.

"Very few survive even at that stage."

The mother of the child, Mrs. John McGrath, has three normal daughters whose ages range from 13 months to four years.

The matron of the hospital where the baby was born said the baby will stay in the premature babies' ward until she weighs five pounds.

The matron added:

"When the baby was born her nails were half formed and she had just a bit of brown hair."

Patient Wife Left Stranded On Vacation

LIMA — (INS) — Harry Strassburg, Lima realtor, was happy today that he has a patient wife.

Strassburg returned home from his vacation for the second time but had the "missus" along this time.

The Lima man stopped at a Toledo filling station on his return trip from Michigan. He thought Mrs. Strassburg was asleep in the back seat. She was but she awoke and got out of the car.

Strassburg got to Lima before he found that his wife was not in the car. When he returned to to Toledo, she was waiting.

Buyers' Market Is Here

Merchants Find Sales Stimulate Business

The buyers' market — much talked about during the post war inflationary period — is really here. Mansfield merchants agree. People are spending their money more carefully and demanding more service.

The manager of one large department store said price reductions during sales have helped his volume of business.

"If you have the right merchandise at the right price people will buy," he commented, adding, "I think people have money but they're spending it for the most they can get."

Meanwhile, a owner of an auto sales said: "We're out scratching for every dime we can get.

"We're right back to the level before the war. I can't see any difference."

The dealer said there seemed to be no slackening in the demand for new cars but that less profit in each sale was coming the dealer's way because dealers must pay more for used cars to get the sale.

He added that sales of used cars have fallen off from 30 to 50 per cent so far this year and that dealers are actually selling the used cars for less than the buying price in order to unload them.

The commerce department in Washington gave price cuts credit for sustaining the buying volume.

According to a report of the Ohio State university's retail analist, June retail sales in the largest Ohio cities ranged from a four per cent increase from June 1948 in Cleveland to a 13 per cent decline in Dayton.

All Ohio retail sales in the first six months of this year were reported within one per cent of equalling the level of the first half of 1948.

Much of the local decline in business was attributed to lay-offs by industry. A number of these plants are now planning to call men back to work and the picture is brightening for fall.

The buyers' market is expected to remain, but with a little more emphasis on the "buying" in the months ahead.

THINK OF IT!

They All Want More Money

IT APPEARS that Uncle Sam, in the role of "gift horse", is being "looked in the mouth" by European nations that are beneficiaries under the Marshall aid plan, and that some of them feel that they are being discriminated against in favor of Great Britain in the distribution of American money.

It cannot be doubted that Britain alone would be able to use all the money the United States cares to supply, as was evidenced by the speed with which the so-called "loan" of $3,750,000,000 approved in mid-July 1946 was exhausted by March 1948, instead of lasting through as a line of credit until the end of 1951, as was intended.

Now Britain's financial difficulties, along with those of other foreign nations, are moving toward a new crisis, and it is not unlikely that another loan from the United States will be sought.

The Marshall Plan, of which Britain is the principal beneficiary, was expected to fill the gap until 1952, when it was hoped that aid could finally be terminated, but that also has proved insufficient, and it is a request for another $624,000,000 that is arousing complaint in other European countries where cuts in Marshall Plan funds are in prospect.

The troubles Britain has encountered are part of the larger problem of the general dollar shortage abroad. But if an overall solution can be found, it is not likely to appear in time to avert the need for special assistance to Great Britain. The question is how Congress will react to yet another plea for aid to that country.

The Senate approved the 1946 loan only after a prolonged filibuster and by the relatively close vote of 46 to 34. The House vote was 219 to 155. In both Senate and House more Republicans voted against the loan than for it. And the Democratic leadership had to fight off amendments to reduce the amount of the loan and to require outright cession of the British bases leased to the United States in 1940.

Another British loan proposal—if it comes to that—can hardly avoid rough going in Congress.

Time To Survey Housing Needs

ALTHOUGH legal clouds obscure the horizon of public housing programs in Ohio under the new federal law, cities in this state have been advised to get their applications in early if they want their share of the money which is going to be passed around.

In the days of WPA and PWA the slogan, even among many conscientious people, was: "They're going to spend it, we might as well get our share."

The situation today is not quite the same, however. Housing is needed.

It is true that if the same money, to be spent by the federal government, were spent by private enterprise we would probably get a lot more living units per dollar total. But private enterprise seemed unable to cope with demand, so the government has stepped in.

Mansfield should promptly survey its needs and make its application for necessary public housing units. In the planning for any housing projects, due thought should be given, too, to supplanting inadequate homes in unhealthful areas with living units that can be properly supplied with good water and ample sanitation facilities.

Torrid Days Shorten Tempers

THE WORST thing about the heat is the people; or, it isn't the heat, it's the humanity. Tempers get short on torrid days when everybody would rather be swimming or fishing or just stretched out in the shade than doing whatever it is they have to do.

It not only happens in factories and homes and offices. It even happens on playgrounds. At one of the well-run recreation spots the other day the children were doing outright what their elders probably felt like doing. They were jawing and squabbling with each other all day long. Reporting the events to her parents later, one little girl said, "Miss So-and-So (the supervisor) blew her top!"

Well, undoubtedly Miss So-and-So was justified in firmly settling down her little cherubs. But, in general, temper is no remedy for torridity. A sense of humor and a glass of ice water work better.

In other words, if you can't keep cool these days, at least keep collected. There's no use raising your temperature with temperament.

When Unions Practice Monopoly

JOHN D. CLARK, one of the President's Council of Economic Advisers, threw a surprise a few days ago into the House judiciary subcommittee inquiring into monopolistic practices, by asking them to investigate monopoly control of labor unions

He made a point of the three-day week advocated by John L. Lewis but stated that there were many other restrictive practices which limit production, increase production costs or restrain competition among producers and marketers

It has been known for some time that such restrictive practices exist and that they are bad for everyone—for labor, for the manufacturer and for the consumer. It is wise and equitable that they be examined now.

What the labor union presumably is for is to give protection to the working man When it lets its pendulum swing so far in the direction of a fancied protection as to produce new dangers by interfering with markets and pricing labor out of its own market of steady employment, it should be made to face the facts. This is as good a time as any for Congress to learn what the facts are.

Noting a survey to the effect that men who are introverts tend to marry women who are extroverts, Bill Vaughan in the Kansas City Star, comments "And even if they aren't they soon get that way."

Raymond Moley's Analysis

Oregon Meets Old-Age Benefits Issue

SALEM, OREGON — It was widely noted throughout the country last fall that the ordinarily conservative state of Oregon had voted for a pension scheme which would take an annual toll from the state treasury equal to about 40 per cent of the state's revenue.

This was regarded as another indication of the capacity of the people, through direct voting on legislation, to seize enough money to bankrupt not only their governments, but the economic system on which governments must depend.

There is enough evidence through the states generally to justify fear, but in the case of Oregon, certain steps have since taken place to avoid a crisis, at least for the time being.

A large part of the credit for the common sense which has alleviated the situation is due to Douglas McKay, Republican governor of the state. McKay is a businessman who was elected in face of the Truman trend of 1948. He is serving his first term.

It will be recalled that last year the governor of Oregon and most of those designated to succeed the governor in case of death were killed in an airplane crash. The man who did succeed to the office was defeated in the primary by McKay who not only was elected but carried the state for Dewey.

The pension law which was carried last year is known out here as the Joe Dunn Act. It was, fortunately, a loosely drawn contraption. It provided that a pensioner, in order to establish need, should be receiving an income of less than $50 a month. The law would then guarantee needy people $50 from the government.

It would have been an almost unbearable burden on the state's resources to provide such old-age assistance to something like 23,000 eligible people. The state would have been required to cut to the bone its contributions to education, roads and other essential services.

* * *

Changes Authorized.

HOWEVER, about a week after the election, the attorney general of the state declared the Joe Dunn Act to be unworkable and gave the opinion that the legislature could amend it.

The legislature, under the leadership of Governor McKay, took this vindication of the rights of representative government very seriously, and two acts were passed in the present year's session.

One of these states that $50 is to be regarded as a goal and that the state will do what it can to meet that goal.

It provides very generously for old-age assistance, but falls far short of the grants which are provided in the neighboring state of Washington.

The burden of welfare activities is still very heavy; the cost of old-age benefits alone is between 15 and 20 per cent of the total expenditures of the state government. But this amount is far less than last year's initiative would have taken.

The old-age people will, of course, get the new bill on the ballot for a popular vote. The preliminaries for that test have already been carried out. But as noted above, there are two bills that passed the legislature and were signed by the governor. The Joe Dunn people have not covered all the vital provisions of both bills in their referendum petition.

One of the most interesting provisions of the enactments of the legislature is the so-called lien provision. This provides that when a beneficiary and his wife have passed away, the state will have a right to collect for payments made from the property left by the beneficiaries.

This is important not only in principle but from a revenue standpoint, since 23 per cent of those receiving old-age assistance in Oregon own property.

The Joe Dunn people have made that provision in their referendum. But they have bypassed provisions which would make it necessary to show that the children of the old folks are unable to help.

This is extremely important, for in any old-age legislation it should be provided that if children are able to support their parents they should be compelled to do so. This is not only practical finance but a proper enforcement of a basic moral law.

Washington Calling

Presents Object Lesson

By MARQUIS CHILDS

THE GREATEST single victory of Russian communism since the end of World War II was the conquest of Czechoslovakia. The destruction of the Roman Catholic church now being systematically carried out is the final move in a campaign planned step by step in Moscow.

The West will ignore the object lesson of Czechoslovakia at its peril.

Perhaps the best analysis of the downfall of the once democratic Czech republic has just been published and it is "must" reading for everyone, but especially for those who take the complacent view that the cold war is subsiding.

The author is Ivo Duchacek now in this country, who was formerly in the Czech diplomatic service After the liberation in 1945, he was chairman of the foreign relations committee of the Czech parliament. His memorandum, called "The Strategy of Communist Infiltration: The Case of Czechoslovakia," is being circulated among top policy planners here. It was put out by the Yale Institute of International Studies.

Czech democrats trying to resist communist infiltration had a feeling of being abandoned by the West, Duchacek says. After the war ended, Great Britain and the United States seemed to have no positive policy American forces in Europe were reduced so rapidly that American power appeared negligible.

Just across Czechoslovakia's border was the might of the Soviet Union, which seemed to be expanding without any restraints imposed on it. Czechs schooled in the communist underground during the war and in Moscow were taking over key positions in the country in accord with a detailed plan worked out long in advance.

* * *

Russians Had Policy.

THIS came on top of the tragic blunders made by the western allies as the war was drawing to an end: conspicuously, the command to stop the victorious western armies short of Prague, leaving the capital to be "liberated" by the Russians. And always in the background was the bitter memory of Britain's appeasement of nazi Germany at Munich.

"It was Soviet power on the one hand and the lack of an active western policy and of cohesion among western European nations on the other," Duchacek writes, "that were mainly responsible for the self-assurance of the communist minority and for the feeling of helpless isolation on the democratic side. The sharp contrast between the active influence of the East and the hesitant policy of the West in Europe was not only the background but the chief cause of communist success in Czechoslovakia, of the number of opportunist fellow-travelers and of the democratic defeats The checkmating of Soviet power thus seems the first condition of an awakening of democratic courage and resistance in Europe."

This, of course, has a direct bearing on what Congress does or does not do about President Truman's request for arms for western Europe. If, as some senators insisted in the debate on ratification, the Atlantic Pact must not mean even a moral obligation, then in both western and eastern Europe they will take it as a sign that while America's intentions are good, there is no real determination to back up those intentions.

Those who believe in western democracy fail to realize, Duchace points out, that communism is a revolutionary conspiracy employing every kind of stratagem, legal and illegal, to overthrow democracy.

Communists in Czechoslovakia's coalition government after the war used their control of the ministries of interior and agriculture to consolidate their power The author emphasizes that in no European country was the Communist party able to gain a majority in free elections.

'Happy' Vaughan Expands Jokester Role

By DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON — No one begrudges the President of the United States a White House jokester to relieve the strain of office, and General Happy Harry Vaughan is not the first to hold such a job. FDR also had a military aide, General "Pa" Watson, whose great asset was a gorgeous sense of humor.

However, "Pa" Watson didn't meddle in Army contracts and backstage lobbying. Pa did put in his oar to get George Marshall appointed chief of staff, but on the whole he kept out of politics, and stuck to his chief function—relaxing the President of an evening.

General Vaughan, his successor, also has a contagious sense of humor which brings healthy relaxation to his chief.

But the public has little conception of how deeply Truman's military aide has dabbled in things that were nb business of his, and how powerful his influence has been in obtaining favors for interesting people.

Take, for instance, export licenses. These permits to ship U. S. goods abroad have not the remotest connection with the buying forged licenses. The commerce department, not the President's military aide. Yet last year, General Vaughan intervened in these matters which he knew nothing about to help the Crescent Trading company which had been using forged export licenses.

The Crescent Co. not only had been buying licenses, which is contrary to regulations, but was buying forged licenses. the commerce department caught them at it and started an investigation. However, Gen. Vaughan, without investigating, wrote a letter on White House stationery, May 17, 1948, asking the commerce department to issue Crescent a license. Vaughan had never met the applicant or the co-signee, but nevertheless vouched for the company's responsibility.

In other words, favors were asked for the company which had violated regulations as against companies which respected the law — thanks to the jovial, undiscriminating White House aide.

* * *

European Cigaret Deal.

IF Happy Harry would profit from one mistake, he might be forgiven. But he doesn't. The general also went to bat for Col. Hubert Fountleroy Julian, famed Black Eagle of Emperor Haile Selassie's Ethiopian air force, who had been connected with the Crescent Trading Co.

Col. Julian wanted to go to Germany, and, without examing closely into the purpose of the trip, Vaughan sent him overseas to inspect the treatment of Negro troops in the European theater.

Vaughan even gave the Black Eagle such glowing credentials that when he reached Europe, he was given a special military aide, had an hour's conference with General Clay, and toured the entire American zone of Germany as the guest of the U. S. army.

Fearing the power of the President's military aide, American generals literally bowed and scraped.

Then, suddenly, the real purpose of Col. Julian's trip developed. He proposed taking over the army's over-age cigarets under a deal by which he would exchange one fresh carton for two old ones. The over-age cartons he planned to sell to the Japanese at an estimated profit of $5,000,000.

When General Clay heard about this, Hubert Fountleroy Julian was sent eagling on his way back to the U. S. A. and to the man who sent him — Harry Vaughan.

* * *

Fresh Water Out Of Salt.

LITTLE noticed in the congressional shuffle is a bill for creating fresh water out of ocean water, which might revolutionize the water supply of many cities.

Introduced by farsighted Senator Joe O'Mahoney of Wyoming, the bill appropriates $50,000,000 to set up two pilot plants on the east coast and west coast to experiment with distilling sea water.

What most people don't realize is that fresh water is becoming an increasing problem in some parts of the U.S.A. In Queens county, Long Island, for instance, the fresh-water level is 35 feet under the sea level, so there is constant danger of salt water contaminating the fresh-water supply.

In Ohio, likewise, deep wells plus heavy use of water by industry have sent the water level down to an alarming point.

Distilling fresh water from salt water is done constantly aboard ships, but in relatively small quantities and at relatively high expense. If the expense could be reduced, and salt water could be distilled on a wholesale scale, the water supply for cities like Los Angeles and San Diego might be revolutionized.

* * *

Merry-Go-Round.

Quiet, middle-of-the-road Guy Gabrielson, G.O.P. committeeman from New Jersey, looks like the new G.O.P. chairman. Having spent twenty years in the middle west, he is geographically O.K. and reasonably nonpartisan. In the clinches, he might lean toward Stassen. . .Through a twist of fate, the Senate probe of the U. S. Lines' new luxury liner has been placed in the hands of North Carolina's Clyde Hoey. Senator Hoey is the brother-in-law of the late O. Max Gardner, attorney for the U. S. Lines. However, fair-minded Hoey will let the chips fall where they may.

Here They Come, Folks!

By INEZ ROBB

WILD OAT FARM, Flemington, N. J. — August is a terrible month on the farm in this region, only fifty miles as the concrete flies in a straight ribbon from New York.

Folks around here are already battening down the tractors and the hired girls.

Come the dog-days and, sure as sun-up, comes also the annual influx of city relatives and city friends, thick as flies and just about as nuisanceful. Makes life on the old homestead nigh unbearable for country folks.

"City folks are fifty years behind the times," complains my neighbor, Mr. Bib Stanley, who operates the dairy farm across the road from Wild Oat.

"All they know about farms is what they see in these out-dated movies about rural life. I'm case hardened now to the fact they expect me to say 'gol darn' and wear red galluses, but I'll be gol-darned if it doesn't get my sand up every time they call me 'Reuben'."

"Excuse that gol-darn," he added. "I'm just practicing to be a picturesque character. Sister Mabel from Brooklyn and her four kids will be here next Wednesday and Mrs. Stanley says it's only fair we should try to live up to their expectations."

However, Mr. Stanley is quite cheerful about Mabel's visit, even with offspring. He is in possession of several copies of the Safety Council's book telling New Yorkers how to behave down on the farm.

"Naturally, the Council, like any city organization, has got its advice backwards," Mr. Stanley pointed out. "It warns city people that farm animals can be dangerous to life and limb, when it is a proved fact that city folks have been badgering and terrorizing farm animals for years."

* * *

Boys Discover Chloe.

THE COUNCIL warns city folks to leave farm animals strictly alone, and that is all Mr. Stanley and his neighbors ask, although the advice comes too late for Chloe.

As gentle a Jersey as ever twitched her tail at a fly, Chloe was born on the Stanley farm and hand-raised by her owners. She spent her gentle life giving enriched milk until Mrs. Stanley's cousin Emma and her three boys came down from the Bronx last August.

The kids had never seen a cow except in western films and once at the rodeo in Madison Square Garden. But thirty minutes after the city brats arrived, the Stanley's heard the gol-darndest racket from the barn yard.

"I made a bee-line out back on the double when I heard poor Chloe bawling like a baby," Mr. Stanley continued. "When I got there, those three hellions were trying to bull-doze Chloe"

He grabbed 'em off Chloe and fanned their britches. But it was a losing battle for him and for Chloe. The next day when Chloe bawled for help, Mr. Stanley found the kids playing cowboys and Indians, with Chloe cast as a buffalo and trying to dodge arrows.

August was just unadulterated hell for Chloe. First was the rodeo, then cowboy and Indians, then lassoing, then the round-up and finally the prairie stampede. That was the day the kids tied the string of firecrackers to Chloe's tail.

"The firecrackers broke Chloe's spirit," said Mrs. Stanley. "After that, she just lay down and wouldn't get up."

Mr. Stanley sent for the vet. He looked Chloe over, shook his head and said there is nothing physically the matter with Chloe. But if ever he saw a cow suffering from melancholia, hypertension and nervous breakdown, that cow was Chloe.

"If Chloe was human," the vet added, "she'd be down with stomach ulcers and a psychoanalyst."

Chloe is just about mended now. Mr. Stanley says, but he points out that her reaction is typical of farm animals panicked by city folks.

Dave Boone Says:

PRESIDENT TRUMAN has asked for $1,450,000,000 to back up the Atlantic Pact. Congress seems to regard this as a big down payment, but Harry says it means we can own the next war outright with fewer weekly installments.

* * *

What's a billion or two these days? It takes that much if you want to get in on the ground floor of real trouble.

* * *

But it's no joking matter. Somebody's got to give Europe some assurance it won't be left to the mercies of an aggressor. It may be more frightened by the congressional debates than by the size of the appropriation.

* * *

If those European nations get the $1,450,000,000, they will be surprised. But not nearly as surprised as Harry would be.

As Cerf Tells It

Carl Loeb, the metal magnate, once asked his son, "How do you spell 'Mississippi'?" The lad countered quickly. "Do you mean the river or the state?"

Frankly Speaking

Summer In Washington

By JAMES MARLOW

WASHINGTON — These are the dog days in Washington, when the weather is hot enough to boil your shirt, and Congress is trying to finish up for the year and go home.

In spite of the heat, which is scorching the city like a blowtorch, the old, slow, waltz-me-around-again pulling and tugging among the congressmen never stops.

Of course, they have a nice place for it, air-conditioned, and their offices are cool, so where they do their fussing and long-winded speechmaking is pleasant as spring.

After walking in out of the crushing summer sun and watching them operate in their unwrinkled linens, I figured I could speed up their unfinished business.

It would be easy Just move them to some of the un-air-conditioned offices in Washington, turn them loose, and see how long it would take them to get done and go home

Congress wants to get away by Sept 1. There are a few things left to clear up. That is, of the things they want to clear up.

Gone now is all talk of some of the big programs that got so much attention earlier in this session. For example, a national compulsory health insurance program.

Nothing will be done on that this year Maybe next year. But it would be a sturdy character who'd bet that anything happens on it next year, either.

Then there's President Truman's civil rights program — the anti-poll tax bill, an anti-lynching bill, and the FEPC (the Fair Employment Practices Commission) — which held a big place in the news when this 81st Congress took over last January.

* * *

Sidestepping Expected.

I CAN'T see how any of it can be squeezed in, even for debate. And there's less chance for any of it to get passed. That will make plenty of talk next year, too.

The Senate earlier this year passed a federal aid to education bill. Then it was sent over to the House for action, since the bill couldn't be law without House approval.

But now it's unlikely the House will act on it, so that will make one more year in which a federal aid to education bill almost made the grade in Congress, but not quite.

Since the Senate acted, there's been so much religious controversy over it — particularly the dispute between Francis Cardinal Spellman and Mrs. Eleanor Roosevelt — that the House will probably step out of its way.

Congress may try to put through a new minimum wage law — raising minimum pay for workers in interstate industry from 40 to maybe 75 cents an hour — and it may act on these.

Widening social security benefits and voting money for President Truman's program to arm western Europe.

But the arms program alone will probably provide almost a month's talk in the Senate where talk is unlimited and plenty of senators don't like the idea of sending munitions overseas.

Meanwhile, though, there'll be plenty of news out of Congress Congressmen will be holding hearings and issuing statements.

COUPLE EXCHANGE VOWS IN GARDEN SERVICE

Miss Lucille Barber and Richard Wade United in Marriage Thursday Evening in Garden

The Wade and Gatton landscaped garden in Bellville was the scene Thursday at 7:15 p. m. of the nuptials of Miss Faye Lucille Barber, who has been residing at 35 West Fifth street, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Barber, Hamden, Ohio, and Richard Gatton Wade, son of Mr. and Mrs. Van D. Wade, "Gatton Rocks", Bellville.

The Rev. John Pfahler, of the Bellville Methodist church officiated for the double ring service.

The couple spoke their vows before an oval curve backed by huge dark green taxus and gold-en-thread cypress trees, flanked by baskets of gladioli.

The garden was enclosed with hedges and evergreens faced down with perennial flowers and lilies.

Given in marriage by her brother, Raymond Barber, the bride wore a white lace and chiffon gown. The bodice and full sleeves of the gown were fashioned in lace. Her finger tip veil was held by a pearl tiara. Her jewelry was a matching pearl necklace and earring set, which was a gift from the bridegroom

She carried an arrangement of white roses and white asters fastened with a shower of white satin ribbons.

Mrs. Raymond Barber, the bride's sister-in-law, of Ashland, served as matron-of-honor. She wore an orchid taffeta gown and carried a modernistic bouquet of green daisy pompoms and yellow roses tied with an orchid ribbon. An arrangement of the same flowers was worn in her hair.

Violet Barber, the bride's sister, of Mansfield, served as bridesmaid. Her gown was green taffeta. She carried a modernistic bouquet of yellow daisy pompoms and Talisman roses tied with green ribbon. She wore the same flowers in a headpiece arrangement.

The bride's mother wore a street length dress of white and brown with matching accessories. The bridegroom's mother chose a light gray sheer dress with a pink and blue print. Both mothers wore gardenia corsages.

Van Ross Wade, of Bellville, the bridegroom's nephew, served as best man. Jim Gatton and Kerry Gatton, of Bellville were chosen as ushers.

A reception was held on an adjoining lawn immediately following the ceremony. Sixty-five guests were served from a table centered with a four tiered cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom. Evergreen bitter-sweet decorated the table.

For traveling through the southeastern states, the bride wore a blue sharkskin suit with white accessories and a white gardenia corsage. She is a graduate of Hamden high school.

The couple will be at home in Columbus, at the conclusion of their wedding trip, where Mr. Gatton is a student at Ohio State university.

Out of town guests were present for the wedding from Mansfield, Ashland, Hamden, Columbus, and Lexington.

Bridal Shower Compliments Mrs. Fry

Mrs. Kenneth Fry, nee Miss Jeanette Baker, was honored Wednesdy evening at the home of Mrs. Dolen Goodner, 148 Buckingham street. The associate hostess was Miss Betty Jona.

Games were the diversion of the evening with prizes being presented to Miss Jona, Mrs. John Fike, Mrs. Leon Ford, Mrs. Ed Young, Mrs. Robert Addlesperger, Mrs. Virginia Gerhart, Mrs. Ed Starkey and Miss Helen Groman, who in turn presented them to the honoree.

Refreshments were served at a late hour from a table covered with white linen. Pastel appointments were used for the dessert luncheon. The table was centered with a lovely floral arrangement of summer garden flowers.

The couple were wed July 2 in Ontario.

Friends Fete Mrs. Wolf

Fifteen friends complimented Mrs. Edward Wolf with a personal shower Thursday evening at the home of her mother, Mrs. J. E. Augustine, 292 Sheridan avenue.

Games were the diversion of the evening with prizes being awarded to the winners.

Mrs. Wolfe received her gifts from a pink and blue decorated cradle.

Refreshments were served at a late hour at small tables with pastel appointments being used. An arrangement of mixed garden flowers flanked by two white tapers in crystal candelabra centered the serving table.

Colony Club Welcomes Two New Members

Thirty members of Colony club and two guests, Mrs. Charles Urban and Miss Isabell Barber, who were introduced by the second vice president, Mrs. J. R. Acomb, were in attendance at the meeting held Thursday afternoon at Johns park.

Two new members, Mrs. Eugene Oswalt and Mrs. J. R. Humphreys, were welcomed into the club.

It was announced that the next meeting will be a hard times party at Johns park. This will also be a covered dish with the husbands as guests.

Mrs. H. L. Cramer, a member of the organization, gave a demonstration on preparing foods for the freezer and serving a meal from the freezer.

At the close of the session refreshments were served buffet style from a table centered with garden flowers. Those in charge were Mrs. Ray Kent, chairman, Mrs. Donald Krumrine, Mrs. Kenneth Cadigan, Mrs. E. F. Weaver, Mrs. Oral Reeves, Mrs. James Guest, Mrs. Robert Hall, Mrs. George Cavanaugh, Mrs. Richard Wolford and Mrs. Steven Dickerson.

HOROSCOPE

For Saturday, July 30
By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

A sudden and quite unforeseen turn of events, may prove of exciting and breath-taking significance, pushing aside for the moment, all plans and objectives, until an imperativ e sweep of the tide restores the status quo. Fortunately, this is to materialize as suddenly as the debacle, providing the situation be not enlarged or exaggerated by rash, tempestuous or erratic moves. There is sign of benign intervention, to be managed with intelligence as well as tact, finesse and strategies well studied and graciously applied.

For the Birthday

Those whose birthday it is, may anticipate a particularly exciting, spectacular and dynamic year, in which sudden reversals or strange developments may be devastating, at least for the time being. But quite as startling comes an aboutface in which surprising aid or opportunity arise to avert lasting catastrophe. This however, depends upon a well-regulated and shrewd course of action, attracting assistance from high places, which might be placed in jeopardy by headstrong, erratic, wild impulses or flare-up. Maintain composure, use ingenuity and skill, get the far vision, for thrilling denouements. Intimate affairs have kindred adventures, curious aspects.

A child born on this day, while impetuous, fervent, and prone to jump the hurdles, yet has fine talents and abilities, winning friends and substantial support.

The bagpipe, now popular in Scotland, is believed to have originated in Asia.

Cool, Refreshing Luncheon

What could be more tantalizing, cool and refreshing on a hot day than sparkling frosted grape juice punch with jelly turnovers and grape juice fruit salad! Your guests will long remember this afternoon snack—and for ease of preparation, your time in the kitchen will be very short. Try this for your next afternoon gathering.

FROSTED GRAPE JUICE

1 pint grape juice
5 tablespoons lemon juice
1-3 cup powdered sugar
1 pint ginger ale

Method: Mix grape juice with 3 tablespoons lemon juice; chill thoroughly. Just before serving, frost cocktail glasses by dipping rim in remaining lemon juice, then dipping immediately in sugar. Let dry. Add cold ginger ale to chilled fruit juices. Pour at once into glasses. Makes six servings.

GRAPE JUICE FRUIT SALAD

1 can mixed fruits
2 envelopes unflavored gelatine
1 cup boiling water
1 cup grape juice
½ cup sugar
¼ cup lemon juice

Method: Dissolve gelatine in cold water. Add boiling water, sugar, lemon juice and grape juice. Pour into mold which has been rinsed in cold water. Chill. When firm unmold. Surround with drained canned fruits. Serve with sour cream dressing. Made as follows:

1 cup thick sour cream
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 tablespoon sugar
¼ teaspoon salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper

Method: Beat cream with egg beater until thick and smooth. Mix other ingredients. Gradually add to cream, beating all the while.

JELLY TURNOVERS

½ cup pot cheese
½ cup shortening
¾ cup raspberry jam
1½ cups flour
½ teaspoon salt
¼ cup ice water

Method: Cream shortening, blend with pot cheese, egg yolk, flour and salt. Mix thoroughly with ice water. Chill. Roll on floured board about ⅛-inch thick. Cut in three-inch squares. Place 2 tablespoons raspberry jam in center of lower half. Brush edges with egg yolk. Fold to form a triangle. Bake in a hot oven about 15 to 18 minutes. (450 degrees).

Local Sorority Holds Social

Mrs. Lester Griebling, Cook road, was hostess to members of Gamma Beta Gamma sorority Thursday evening for a business and social evening. One guest, Mrs. Benjamin Boals, was present.

Prizes for the social evening were awarded to Mrs. Harlan Ehrman and Mrs. Albert Rimmer.

Refreshments were served at small tables. Tiny bud vases filled with summer garden flowers were used as centerpieces.

The next meeting will be at the home of Mrs. Lloyd Curtner, Parkview street, August 11.

TEN ATTEND

Mrs. Charles Wingert, Foster street, entertained ten members of the Busy Bee club, Thursday. Games were the diversion of the afternoon. Prizes were awarded to Mrs. Bessie Sheets and Mrs. Nellie Antes. Luncheon was served from a table appointed with garden flowers. The next meeting will be August 11 at the home of Mrs. Clara Calver, 159½ South Main street.

DeVores Entertain For Miss Worley, Bride-Elect

Miss Ramona DeVore and her mother, Mrs. Walter DeVore, entertained in honor of Miss Jeanne Worley, bride-elect of Dan Baker of Cleveland, at the DeVore home, Rambleside drive.

Games were the diversion of the evening with prizes being awarded to Mrs. Howard Bletz and Miss Marlene Remy, who in turn presented them to Miss Worley.

The honoree received her gifts from under an umbrella with streamers attached which lead to them. This arrangement was placed before the fireplace. The hostesses gift was of crystal.

Luncheon was served from a long table in the living room with the seventeen guests seated. Appointments were in pink and white, the color scheme chosen by Miss Worley for her wedding.

On the mantel was placed a miniature bride and bridegroom with ribbon bows extending from them. On the bows were inscribed "Dan and Jeanne". Streamers of pink and white extended from the mantel lights to the top of the mirror.

Miss Worley is a graduate of Mansfield Senior high school and Wittenberg college. She is now an instrumental instructor in music at Johnny Appleseed junior high school.

The couple will be wed Sunday, July 31, at the Main street evangelical and United Brethren church at 3:30 o'clock. The Rev. Willard J. Shawk will officiate for the closed ceremony. A reception will follow at the bride's home, 462 Park avenue west.

There is no trustworthy record of the use of bells before the Christian era.

Celeryville Experimental Station Active

Seek Control Of Diseases By Spraying

War Being Waged On 'Onion Blast'

WILLARD — Operations are in "full swing" at the Celeryville experiment station, according to Ed Postema, manager of the 15-acre sub-station of Wooster college experiment farms. Experiments are being made in disease control by sprays and dusts and shading materials for combatting "onion blast" and chemical weed control.

Last year and this spring, soy beans and rye were planted and then plowed under to enrich the muck soil on the farm. The land was tiled and a building constructed on the land turned over by the Celeryville truck gardeners to the state for use in experimental farming.

Postema reports scientists from the horticulture, entomology and agronomy departments of Wooster and Ohio State university are working with the six-full-time employes and one part-time employe of the station. Further, conservation projects are being conducted at the station.

In the fall, the group plans to have a building erected to house the modern equipment now used on the new state farm; and an irrigation system will be installed as a future addition to facilities.

Items grown at Celeryville's sub-station include carrots, celery, poatoes and onions. Various sprays are being used in the carrot plots in an effort to control a disease termed "yellows."

Experiments in chemical weed control are being conducted in plots of onions, carrots, celery and potatoes. Sprays only are being used on the potato plots; whereas dust is being used on some onion plots in order to test dust effects on strip control.

TINY APPLIANCES — Carney Chess, of North Hollywood, Calif., tinkers with a miniature heating pad, hot plate, toaster and iron, electrical appliances he builds as a hobby.

OSU Unit Plans Picnic

ASHLAND — Ohio State university alumni of Ashland county will have a summer gathering Thursday, August 26, at the home of Dr. Earl Mumper, Loudonville, it was planned at a meeting of the county association's executive board Thursday night.

Joseph McClure, preident of the county association, presided at the meeting at which it was planned to expand the association's yearly program to more than the annual alumni banquet each December.

Dr. Mumper has invited the entire county association together with wives, husbands and sweethearts, to have a picnic at his home south of Loudonville. The host will furnish coffee, and lemonade. Members are to bring picnic food and table service.

During the informal program, plans will be discussed for further gatherings, possibly including regular showings of Ohio State football pictures this fall.

Bucyrus Bible School Graduates 50 Tonight

BUCYRUS— Nearly 50 Bucyrus children will be "graduated" tonight from the Salvation Army vacation Bible school here.

Classes were held in handicraft, memory work, flannelgraph lessons on the book of Psalms and singing.

Prizes and diplomas were presented to the students by Major and Mrs. William Quirk, Salvation officers here, and Mrs. James Shackelford, who also assisted in class instruction.

Bucyrus Units Plan Springfield Caravan

BUCYRUS—Members of the Bucyrus Knights of Pythias lodge and the Pythian Sisters here will participate in a a caravan leaving Marion Sunday morning for a visit to tthe K. of P. home in Springfield.

Fifty cars are expected to be in the caravan, which will be escorted by the state highway patrol.

GALION—Edward Duano Ritzhaupt, seaman apprentice, USN, son of Mrs. Mabel Ritzhaupt of 318 South Boston street, is engaged in fleet exercises near the Philippine Islands aboard the submarine USS Queenfish with other units of the Pacific Fleet.

Going To Coast

PLYMOUTH — Mr. and Mrs. E. B. Curpen will close their Jewelry store for the month of August, and go to Seattle, Wash., for a visit with their son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. James Dones and family. They all will make a trip to the west coast.

Dance In Square

GALION — The northwest quarter of the public square was blocked off last evening and members of the local Youth Center and their guests proceeded to enjoy a round and square dance.

Elks Hold Picnic

GALION — The Elks family picnic was held Wednesday afternoon at Heise Park with 600 attending. Harmon Mansperger served as general chairman. Fred Ernst and H. E. Oen were in charge of the menu.

District Elk Grand Ruler Aid Named

Michener, of Willard, Gets Appointment

WILLARD — Emmett T. Anderson, grand exalted ruler of the Benevolent and Protective Order of Elks, announced the appointment of William J. Michener of Willard as district deputy grand exalted ruler for the North Central district.

The North Central District embraces lodges in Marion, Mansfield, Delaware, Mount Vernon, Bucyrus, Sandusky, Elyria, Norwalk, Bellevue, Galion, Lorain, Wooster, Ashland and Willard.

Michener became affiliated with Willard Elks lodge No. 1370 in February, 1936, served through the chairs and became exalted ruler for the year 1943-44, after which he was elected trustee, in 1944, serving for three years. He now holds the position as treasurer of Willard B.P.O. Elks No. 1370.

He was district chairman of the Elks War commission in 1944-45; district chairman of the Ritualistic committee in 1945-46; and district chairman of the Lapsation and Membership committee in 1948-49.

He has served on numerous committees appointed by the exalted rulers of Willard B.P.O. Elks in the past and is rated one of the outstanding Elks of the district.

Taking Course

ASHLAND — Two local men, Harry J. Cross, son of Mrs. J. E. Cross of 816 Ohio street, and William R. Sevits, son of Mrs. E. R. Sevits of 1003 College boulevard, are enrolled in a summer training course at the Naval Station at Newport, R. I.

1,000-POUND FACE — Jacqueline Robert, who won a Belgian beauty contest, received a thousand pounds in cash and tours of England, France and Italy as her prize.

Tests In Ashland Attract U. S. Official

Chief Plans Health Visit There Today

Mass Program To End on Saturday

ASHLAND — Scheduled visitors to Ashland today for the next to last day of the free chest x-rays and diabetic blood tests sponsored by the Ashland county health department include Dr. A. L. Chapman, chief of the chronic disease division of the United States Public Health Service.

Others expected to visit Ashland today to observe the mass X-rays and blood tests are Dr. W. B. Lacock, chief of the chronic disease division of the Ohio health department; Dr. K. H. Frankauser and Dr. F. W. Lowenstein of the nutrition unit of the Ohio department of health.

The total number of Ashland countians X-rayed during the three weeks period was nearing 10,000 today.

This was the goal set by Dr. C. B. Mauser, city-county health commissioner, at the time the state health department mobile and portable X-ray units opened the free examinations here.

The figure represents approximately 60 per cent of the adult population of the county. Only persons over 15 years of age are eligible for the free tests.

Go Monday To 4-H Camp

PLYMOUTH—Miss Betty Ann Hutchinson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Roscoe Hutchinson of Plymouth, rural, and Marvin Kenny of New Burlington, will leave Monday to represent the state at the National Founders 4-H camp at Camp Miniwanoa, Mich., for two weeks.

Miss Hutchinson graduated this year from Plymouth high school and has completed 14 4-H projects in seven years of club work in Richland county.

In eight years Kenny, of Clinton county, has built his club activities into a herd of six Aberdeen Angus cows and 8 Duroc Jersey cows. They were chosen to represent Ohio's more than 60,000 4-H club members.

Police Kill Owls To Quiet Neighborhood In Crestline

CRESTLINE — Police this week shot four owls in the North Thoman street area, between Bucyrus and West Main streets, to bring quiet to the neighborhood. Residents had complained for the past several weeks of the noise by numerous screech owls.

Others evidently have been scared away by the shots as last night was the first quiet evening enjoyed by the residents.

Police were informed the owls came in a body and settled around the High school building and English Lutheran church.

At various times as many as eight owls could be counted with others probably nearby.

Pigskin Ace Jumps Pro Grid Club

By KEN OPSTEIN

CHICAGO—(INS) —Court action which threatened to crumble the foundation of baseball only a few months ago menaced professional football today.

This time, however, the football strangely seemed to be kicking itself.

The question involved was the so-called retainer clause.

In other words: does a football or baseball team have option on a player's future services after he has completed the terms of a written contract?

Former Wisconsin Halfback Elroy (Crazy Legs) Hirsch says no. The owners of the Chicago Hornets of the All-America football conference shout yes, and are contemplating court action.

Hirsch played three years with the Chicago Rockets, but when the Rockets spent themselves, moneywise and otherwise, Hirsch decided to have no truck with the successors, known as the Hornets.

Elroy leaped into the rival National football league and signed a contract to play with the Los Angeles Rams. He has been told to report for training in Redlands, Calif., next week.

That could be the end of the story, but in this corner in purple trunks is Lee Freeman, one of the Hornets' owners.

HORNETS FIRST?

Freeman says the Hornets have the first call on Hirsch since they have the franchise once held by the deceased Rockets. Freeman has put the incident before the All-America conference's executive committee of Benjamin F. Lindheimer, Paul Brown and Dan Topping.

That action might become the blow for the resumption of undeclared war between the All-America and National Professional league.

The worst, however, could yet come. It is quite conceivable that the Hornets could lose a court suit against Hirsch and the Rams. The Chicago team might then find that Hirsch was not the only player lost.

NO LACE!!!—Current glamor gal of the feminine tennis set, Gertrude "Gorgeous Gussie" Moran, California's net queen, is pictured getting togged out for a practice round. Gussie competed in the Wimbledon tournament and took down plenty of headlines when she appeared on the court in lace-trimmed panties.

YESTERDAY'S STARS
(By Associated Press)

BATTING—Gene Hermanski, Dodgers hit grand slam home run and double in Brooklyn's 7-1 romp over Chicago.

PITCHING—Allie Reynolds and Joe Page, Yankees teamed up on Cleveland for six-hit 3-2 New York victory that restored four-game edge. Page saved day with extra-inning relief job.

Fesler Refuses To Admit Buckeyes Have Potential National Champion

By JIM DAILEY

COLUMBUS —(UP)—Ohio State football coach Wes Fesler heaved a deep sigh and with a "get-me-off-the-hook" expression today denied that he is going to have one of the best football teams in the nation this fall.

"I won't say we aren't going to have a mighty tough football team," he pleaded, "but with the funny way that ball bounces and the tough squads in this league I don't see how anybody can pick one as outstanding."

"Sure we're going to be good," he said, "but we lost five good guys—including one of the best fullbacks in the country in Joe Whisler—and I can't see that freshman team filling up the gaps."

Ohio State has been reported as "loaded for bear" for the coming football season. And it is reported that the numerous "football annuals" about to hit the newsstands pick Ohio State for the Big Nine title, if not for the mythical championship.

This is Fesler's third chance at giving the football-mad city of Columbus a winner—and if he fails to live up to the present glowing reports it may be his last. He has won eight and lost nine during his two year tenure, with a fair season last year at six won and three lost.

But that isn't good enough for Ohio's fans, who have chewed up four football coaches since 1940, including the highly-capable Paul Brown of the Cleveland Browns, who led the Buckeyes to their only national championship in this decade.

All Fesler has to do to make the fans happy is "win-'em-all" against such competition as Michigan, Northwestern, Minnesota, Illinois and Southern California, with Indiana, Iowa, Pittsburgh, and Missouri — nobody's fools either—thrown in.

Looking at the proposition coldly, Fesler said he had seven regulars coming back, and the so-called "great" freshman team that is supposed to fill in is anything but that. The Buckeyes were to have landed the cream of the Ohio scholastic crop last year, mostly through the barnstorming of the clean-cut personable Fesler — often called the "All-American Boy" in these parts.

"The varsity only scrimmaged once against the frosh last year," Fesler said, "and we scored seven touchdowns in 15 minutes. We didn't scrimmage with them after that. We needed better competition."

Of that freshman group, Fesler said he lost five of the best prospects via school-work. And four top boys from his present squad are fighting the scholastic bug-a-boo through summer school and must be listed as doubtful. Among the latter is Jerry Krall, last year's ace halfback.

In a final attempt at rationalization, Fesler listed three schools on his schedule which make better candidates for national honors—Minnesota, Michigan, and Northwestern.

"Northwestern lost only three boys out of the Rose Bowl championship outfit. Minnesota has the best line in college football, and," he said grimly, "no doubt you've heard of Michigan."

Top Race Trio In Big Battle

CHICAGO —(AP)— Ponder, Capot and Palestinian continue their battle for the three-year-old turf championship tomorrow in the running of the $60,000 added Arlington classic.

The first three finishers in the Kentucky Derby, along with four or five stout challengers, are expected to draw 35,000 fans to witness the mile and a quarter grind in Arlington park's final day of racing.

Calumet farm's Ponder will have the Veteran Steve Brooks in the saddle just as he did in the Derby when he came from far in the rear to catch both Capot and Palestinian in the stretch and conquer by three lengths. Ted Atkinson, who piloted Capot in the Derby, will ride him again tomorrow.

Palestinian, which had Hedley Woodhouse aboard in the Derby, will be ridden by Eddie Arcaro. Arcaro finished sixth with Olympia, the favorite, in the Derby.

Indians Move to Boston for 5 'Big' Games

Cuff Stuff

By Fred Tharp

(News-Journal Sports Editor)

NOT TOO MUCH has hit the newsstands but Ralph Kiner has an outside chance to break Babe Ruth's home run record monopoly this year. . . . In 1947, Ralph poked 51 balls out of the park — just nine shy of Ruth's all-time record. . . . So far this season, Ralph has 27 homers. . . . Two years ago he didn't get his 27th until Aug. 7. . . . Then he picked up a fabulous 14 in August and 12 in September. . . . A like spurt starting about now would put the Bambino's record in danger. . . . Big Ralph is the type of player who wants to improve. . . . He carries a candid camera around and takes shots of such hitters as Stan Musial, Ted Williams and Joe DiMaggio. . . . He then studies their styles hoping to improve upon his own.

QUICK QUOTE DEPT. — Oscar Fraley, Upee:

"Some snakes have lived one or two years without food by absorbing the fat of their own bodies. Known as living off the fat of the land."

★

REV. JOHN GENSEL got a chance to see Brooklyn's Jackie Robinson in action in two games last week and terms the former collegian "a really remarkable player." . . . In the late innings of a Dodgers 3-to-0 victory over the Cubs, Robinson stole second and went to third on an overthrow. . . . Rev. Gensel relates, "Everyone in the stands, Robinson, all the players and Cubs' Pitcher Bob Rush knew Robinson was going to try to steal home. And he made it for his third successful steal of home this year. A most unusual thing happened in the eighth inning with Robinson on third and Bob Muncrief on the mound. Robinson was trying to rattle Muncrief by jumping up and down at third but the plate umpire got the most rattled. He motioned Robby to come in as Muncrief had balked. The plate ump failed to see the batter step out of the box since he seemed intent on watching Robinson. However, the base umpire overruled the plate umps — something different in baseball."

★

PETE CAMPBELL, the classy Gorman-Rupp third sacker, got a good "look" this week from Bruno Betzel, New York Yankee scout. . . . Pete is easily one of Mansfield's better softballers but in the "bunt-ball" game his abilities are second to those he displays in baseball. . . . Campbell has been a pitching and infield cog of the Ohio Wesleyan baseball team for the past couple of years. . . . The Boston Red Sox have now won 17 of their last 21 games. . . . Ty Cobb played 3,033 major league games in his long career.

Bodley's Faces Top Golf Squad

Bodley's Sohio station will face the unenviable task of knocking off Norton's Shoe Repair in today's City B league golf matches at Possum Run. Norton's won the first half title and leads the second half with seven points in two weeks.

Other matches today pair Ohio Sport Center with Bradley Storage, Hall's Shamrock Market with Pfeiffer's Beer, Doc Hamman with Ross Rug, and Richland Printing with Fox Jewelers.

Yanks Take Finale of Series, 3-2

BOSTON —(AP)— Unable to get anywhere in New York, Cleveland's tribesmen moved their tepee to Beantown today. But they didn't expect the hunting to be much easier.

Boston's third place Red Sox are hot once again. Since dropping their last series to Cleveland two weeks ago, the Sox have won seven of nine games.

The club now is 7½ games off the pace of the league - leading New York Yankees and just 3½ behind Cleveland.

Two contests will get the clubs underway today in their five-game series. Mike Garcia of the Tribe and Joe Dobson were selected for mound duty in the afternoon game. Cleveland's Gene Bearden was to face Chuck Stobbs in the night tussle.

Cleveland's 3 to 2 loss to New York yesterday was a thriller right down to the end.

Joe Gordon singled in Thurman Tucker and Larry Doby to give the Tribe a 2 to 0 lead in the third frame.

It remained that way until the fifth, when the Yanks tied it up on successive triples by George Stirnweiss and Allie Reynolds and a force out.

The Yanks came back in the sixth to break the deadlock. Bobby Brown walked, moved to third on Hank Bauer's single and scored on Stirnweiss' single.

MAKES A BID

Cleveland made a strong bid in the ninth, but a beautiful throw to third base by Cliff Mapes, substitute right fielder for the Yankees, erased the effort.

Manager Lou Boudreau opened the inning with a single. And then the brain trust went into action. Roberto Avila ran for Boudreau, Hal Peck batted for Ray Boone and walked.

Jim Hegan fouled twice attempting to bunt and Pitcher Early Wynn went in to bat for him. Allie Reynolds was replaced by Joe Page and Mapes who has a strong throwing arm, took over right field for the Yanks.

And with the stage set, Wynn lifted a high fly to Mapes, who made a bullet-like throw to catch the sliding Avila at third. The game ended when Ken Keltner batted for Bob Lemon and rolled out.

The victory was the 11th in 12 starts for Reynolds, who allowed only six hits. Lemon, who gave up the same number, was tagged for his fifth loss in 17 games.

Gospel Softballers Upset Top Church League Outfit

Four Square Gospel pulled into a tie for third place in the Church softball league last night by edging past First Congregational 4-1 at Prospect park.

It was the second defeat of the season for Congregational and puts it in a tie with Four Square at five victories and two defeats. First Methodist backed into second place with 6-2 while Park Avenue Baptist holds the lead with 6-1.

Bob Milligan was the Four Square star yesterday as he set First Congregational down with three base hits and did not walk a single batter. He yielded a run in the first inning and pitched shutout ball thereafter. O. Orewiler led the Gospel nine with "three for four."

In other games, First Presbyterian edged First Christian, 6-2, and St. Matthews blasted United Brethren, 15-3.

St. Matthew's scored seven runs in the second inning of its game to sew up the verdict. A home run with two men on by Pitcher Bill Mangan featured the rally. Phil Rogers had two doubles in three trips and started two double plays.

First Presbyterian won its game on only three hits. Seven bases on balls off First Christian Hurler McFarland did the damage.

Shelby Blues Play Tonight

The Shelby Blues will play their second game in the state National Baseball Congress tournament tonight at Holgate and must win or get out.

The Blues lost their opener Tuesday, to Bryan, 8 to 5, but will get a second chance in the double - elimination affair when they meet Wellington tonight. Wellington also lost its first game, bowing 8-7 in 14 innings to Somerset.

Archibold will meet the Cleveland Barons in the other game tonight. Last night Tiffin eliminated Casstown, 11-1, and Oakwood took out New Lebanon, 6-5.

Wins 14th Game

Springfield hurler Clark Mains racked up his 14th victory last night as the Giants defeated the Newark Yankees 9-2 in an Ohio-Indiana league game at Springfield. Mains struck out six and walked six. He has lost five games.

Baker Takes Favorite Role In Junior Golf

WASHINGTON — (AP) — Walter (Tony) Baker, a 17-year-old high school senior from Atlanta, moved to the fore today as top choice as the national junior golf meet moved into the fourth round.

Over the 6350-yard congressional course yesterday, Baker downed long-hitting Pat Schwab of Dayton, Ohio, who notched the meet's top medal score in the first round with a four-under 67.

Baker meets Dick Hessemer of Houston today.

Two of last year's quarterfinalists are still in the running and hope to enter the junior classic's quarterfinals which will be reached by 11 A.M. (EST.) They are Miles Schlapik of Chicago who faces Louisiana state junior champ Tommy Morrow of Shreveport and Mason Rudolph of Clarksville, Tenn., who plays Charley Strack of York, Pa.

A member of the third generation of a famed golfing family, Joe Turnesa jr., meets Florian Weinhaus of St. Paul in another top match.

Third round scores yesterday included:

Florian Weinhaus, St. Paul, Minn., defeated Richard Mulvaine, Kenton, O., 6 and 5.

Charles Strack, York, Pa., defeated Donald Albert, Alliance, O., 4 and 3.

William Morrow, Shreveport, La., defeated Pat Moran, Akron, O., 4 and 3.

Jim Stewart, Hamilton, O., defeated Leo Pinkston, Abilene, Texas, one up 21 holes.

Kurowski Sent To Texas League

ST. LOUIS —(INS) — Geroge "Whitey" Kurowski left the St. Louis Cardinals today to join Houston in the Texas league.

Kurowski has been on the disabled list since May 18. A recurrence of an elbow injury during the 1948 season resulted in the one-time star third baseman of the Cards being sidelined most of the time.

'Pinkie' To Start Grid Practice

Paul "Pinkie" Ferguson, 1948 stellar quarterback of the Senior high school football team, will be one of 50 athletes reporting to Massilion next Tuesday for the annual Ohio high school all-star football game.

An 11-day practice period will be held for both the North and South squads before the All-Star tilt of Aug. 13. Ferguson was named to the North squad to be coached by Ralph Neff of Lakewood. Glenn Ellison of Middletown will handle the Southern team.

The game will be played in Massilion's Tiger Stadium. Officials already named are Jack McPhee and John Russ of Youngstown and W. K. Dunton of Piqua. Dan Tehan, Hamilton County sheriff, declined the invitation because of an injury. Tehan was struck by an automobile in the "victory parade" staged for heavyweight "champion" Ezzard Charles in Cincinnati.

The 25-man squads follow:

NORTH

ENDS Dick Dunbar, Akron West; Dick Davidson, Akron; Tod Kob, Shaker Heights; and Frank McPhee, Youngstown Chaney.

Cardinals Schedule Tryout Camp Here

The St. Louis Cardinals baseball club of the National league will stage a tryout camp at Mansfield's Liberty park diamond Aug. 11 and 12, Stan Kamen, city recreation director, announced today.

The first-place Cardinals will send three of their top scouts to Mansfield to conduct the school. Kamen today completed arrangements for the school with George H. Sisler jr. of the Cardinals.

Realization that the Mansfield area is loaded with promising young baseball talent prompted the St. Louis organization to schedule the camp here.

Bob Kline, former major league pitcher, heads the three-man staff which will teach at the Mansfield school. His assistants will be Jack Sturdy, a Cardinal infielder until a sore arm forced his retirement, and J. F. Alcock, veteran minor league player and scout.

Drills at Liberty park will begin at 11 a. m. each day and will stress baseball fundamentals. Exercises in throwing and fielding will precede games between teams made up of players attending the school.

All phases of camp activity will be open free of charge of any 17 to 23-year-old boys who would like to pick up valuable tips about the national pastime. Even youngsters with no idea of trying for pro baseball will be welcome at the school.

All fellows attending the school must furnish their own shoes, uniforms and gloves.

G-R Softballers Play Upper Nine In Test For Meet

The Gorman - Rupp softball team will test one of the district tournament entrants when it is host to Bud's Sports of Upper Sandusky at 8:30 tonight at Gorman-Rupp field.

The Pumpers will be after their sixth consecutive victory and their 16th in 24 games. Gorman-Rupp's play was only so-so early in the season but for the past two weeks the team has looked more like the outfit which was runner-up for the state championship last year.

Bob Regula, who has included a no-hit and a one-hit game in his last three starts, will be the Pumpers' starter tonight. Gorman-Rupp will open defense of its district title next week with the Upper Sandusky nine, one of the tougher barriers it must get past.

U. S. Thinlies Cut Margin In Big Dual Meet

OSLO, Norway —(UP)— Having wiped out nearly all the deficit from its bad start, the powerful towing American track team was favored to forge ahead of Scandinavia today in the third and final day of their big dual meet at Bislet stadium.

After the first day, the combined Scandinavian team held a 26-point bulge but yesterday the Yanks cut it down to six points at 164.5 to 158.5.

The American surge was marked by victories in five of seven events, including the brilliant world's record shot put by Jim Fuchs of Yale. The big American siege gun stole the show when he lofted the iron ball 17.79 meters (about 58 feet, 4.2 inches).

The titanic toss outdistanced the current world record of 58 feet, 1-4 inch held by Charley Fonville of Michigan. A huge crowd gave Fuchs a mighty ovation as he jogged a 400-yard "lap of honor" but his mates and coaches anticipated the record because of several near-58 foot tosses Fuchs made earlier in the tour.

Americans were expected to pick up additional points today in the decathlon where olympic champion Bob Mathias of Tulare, Cal., was running third after the first five events.

ICELANDER LEADS

Young Oren Claussen of Iceland was leading the decathlon with 3.977 points while Irv Mondscheon of New York was second with 3.974. Mathias third with 3.858, and Bill Albans of Chapel Hill, N. C., fourth with 3.790.

Other American victories yesterday were by Mal Whitfield of Ohio State in the 800 meters, Craig Dixon of UCLA in the 120-yard high hurdles, Herb Douglas of Pittsburgh in the broad jump, and the 400-meter relay.

Cards and Dodgers Collide In Crucial Series

St. Louis Carries 'Fat' Victory Skein

By JACK HAND (AP Sports Writer)

Bring on the Dodgers! That's the cry in St. Louis, where the sizzling Cards, on an eight-game winning streak, welcome another showdown with Brooklyn for the National league lead.

The Cards nudged the Brooks out of first place at Ebbets field last weekend. They open a three-game series at Sportsman's park tonight with a game and a half lead. The park is sold out and most St. Louis hotels are booked full through Sunday.

Howie Pollet, the slim southpaw who coasted home on a 14-1 rout of the Dodgers last Sunday, draws the opening game assignment against Preacher Roe, whose seven-game string was snapped by the Cards a week ago.

The Cards warmed up for the Dodgers by smothering the Phillies yesterday, 10-2, for a sweep of the series. They roughed up Kenny Heintzelman, who had won nine in a row and forced him to retire after a five-run second inning.

Sixteen hits spilled off the St. Louis bats in the attack on Heintzelman, Ken Trinkle and young Charley Bicknell. Oddly enough, Stan Musial didn't get one in five trips. Chuck Diering was the leader with a pair of doubles and a single.

Al Brazle, who might face the Dodgers Sunday, wrapped up his 10th win with a seven-hitter while the Phils stumbled through five errors, three by rookie Third Baseman Willie Jones.

BRANCA GOES ROUTE

Brooklyn drew hope from Ralph Branca's route-going job against the Chicago Cubs, 7-1, his first complete game and first victory since June 29. Despite his 11th triumph Branca probably will miss the Card series in which rookie Joe Hatten and Don Newcombe are slated to work.

Gene Hermanski's homer with three men on and the score tied 1-1 ruined Bob Rush in the sixth inning. Jackie Robinson and Duke Snider homered in succession off reliefer Walt Dubiel in the seventh to end the scoring.

The New York Giants again poked their heads into the first division, displacing the Phils, with an 8-6 edge over Pittsburgh. They blew an early five-run lead but fought back to win on Sid Gordon's 20th homer with a man on in the sixth.

Warren Spahn coasted to his 12th win, beating Cincinnati 11-2, while his Boston mates put the slug on Ken Raffensberger and two successors for 16 hits, five by Ed Sauer.

The dependable Allie Reynolds - Joe Page combination pitched the New York Yankees to a 3-2 decision over Cleveland.

With Dom DiMaggio on a 23-game hitting streak and leading the league with a .344 average, Boston again is in a position to challenge.

Joe McCarthy's team lost a win yesterday when American League President Will Harridge ordered the Sox and Washington to complete a six-inning game of July 7. Boston led 8-3 when the game was called to permit the Sox to catch a train. They'll play the final three innings before their Aug. 20 game.

KINDER WINS 11TH

McCarthy got another well-pitched game yesterday from Ellis Kinder, who scattered seven Chicago hits for his 11th victory, 6-1. He might have had a shutout for an error by Vern Stephens.

Dizzy Trout's homer with the bases full featured a seven-run ninth-inning Detroit rally for a 13-7 victory over Washington. A scheduled St. Louis-Philadelphia night game was rained out.

Aussie Team Touted to Win

WILMINGTON, Del. — (INS) — Australia is expected to beat both the heat and Mexico today, in the first singles matches of the American zone finals of the Davis cup.

The luck of the draw sent young Frank Sedgman, the Aussies' national tennis champion against Armando Vega, No. 1 Mexican player.

Rated one of the world's most potent racket-swingers, Sedgman was touted in pre-match talk as virtually certain to dent Mexico's chances from the start.

In the second singles match John Bromwich, 30-year-old playing captain of the Australians, loomed as a decided favorite over Rolando Vega, older brother of Armanda, and captain of the Mexican team.

Harshman Hits 36th

Jack Harshman, Minneapolis' rangy first baseman who has been dealing harshly with American association pitchers all season, clouted his 36th home run of the season last night to help the Millers score a 9 to 7 decision over Kansas City.

Harshman, who appeared at bat eight times last season with with the New York Giants and collected two hits, now leads the association in home runs, in runs batted in, 94; in runs scored, 92, and total bases, 241.

Charlie Workman, Minneapolis rightfielder, joined Harshman in the 13-hit attack by hammering out his 28th home run.

Peggy, Carol Play In Finals

TOLEDO — (AP) — It will be the Findlay champion versus the Tiffin medalist today in the 36-hole finals of the Toledo women's district golf tournament.

Peggy Kirk, the champion, will meet Carol Diringer, the medalist, over the Highland Meadows country club layout.

Miss Kirk, who will be seeking her third consecutive title, defeated Barbara McIntyre, 14-year-old Toledo girl, yesterday, 4-3, to advance into the finals.

Miss Diringer won over Mrs. Kenneth Brock 6 and 5.

The two finalists have met six times previously with Miss Kirk coming out on top four times. She defeated Miss Diringer in the 1947 district finals and in the semi-finals in 1947 and again last year. Miss Diringer won the district championship in 1946.

Early Bird May Be Late

SOUTH BEND, Ind. —(INS)— How early does the early bird have to be?

It seems that he can't be too early if he's looking for football tickets.

M. Robert Cahill, Notre Dame ticket manager, announced today that Notre Dame's allotment for tickets at the Michigan State game in Lansing, Mich., Nov. 5 is exhausted.

Breaks Finger

SPRINGFIELD — (INS) — George Snyder, third baseman for Newark in Ohio - Indiana league suffered a broken finger in pre - game warmup last night in the Springfield - Newark tilt. He is expected to be out a month.

Field at 20

NEWARK — The entrance of Red Bales, Columbus driver, has increased the field for the sanctioned big car auto races at the Jones Speedway east of Newark, next Sunday afternoon, July 31, to more than 20, with the possibilities of a record field of some 30 entries.

MAT STAR — Gus, the 300-pound wrestling bear, will star on tomorrow's pro wrestling show at the Mansfield armory. Gus will put his undefeated record against George O'Hara in the 30-minute semi-final.

Lead Western Golf With 67's

ST. PAUL, Minn., — (UP) — Lloyd Mangrum and Chick Harbert, who don't believe in predictions, hoped to keep the lead today in the second 18-hole round of the $15,000 western open golf tournament.

Dapper Mangrum of Chicago and handsome Harbert of Detroit upset the pre-tourney favorites yesterday as they tied with first-round scores of 67, five under par, on the tough Keller course.

The favorites — Dr. Cary Middlecoff of Memphis and Sammy Snead of White Sulphur Springs, W. Va., — weren't far behind. Middlecoff was only one stroke off the pace with 68 and Snead was just a stroke behind him.

The field of 112 still in the running after yesterdays round will be cut to 60 after today.

Harmsworth Race Starts Today

DETROIT — (INS) — The first Harmsworth trophy race in 16 years gets underway on the Detroit river today with Miss Canada IV, the powerboat owned by Ernest and Harold Wilson of Ingersoll, Ont., the Challenger.

Three American boats will defend the trophy for the renowned Gar Wood, who won it at Cowes, England, in 1920, and preserved it as a symbol of American superiority in power-boat racing since.

Old Timers Play

GALION — The Old Timers baseball game, featuring players of 40 summers and over, will be played Sunday evening at the East Side park. The game was originally scheduled for last week, but was rained out.

Scores 15th Win

ST. PAUL — (AP) — Phil Haugstad, St. Paul righthander, scored his 15th victory of the season last night as the Saints routed Milwaukee 11-1 in the American association.

Top Notch American Clubs Meet

Two softball games in each of two leagues are on tap for Mansfield diamonds at 6:15 p. m. today.

Undefeated Todd's Jewelry will see action in the American league when it meets Sons of Herman at Prospect park. The tilt will be the most important of the day since a victory for Todd's will put it in undisputed possession of first place. Farm Tools has won two games without a defeat while a win for Todd's would be its third.

Sons of Herman won the first round game between the two teams by a 4-3 score. The Hermans have won one and lost one in the second round of play.

The other American league game pairs Isaly Dairy with Veterans of Foreign Wars at Johns park. Neither team has won a second round game.

One International league game will be played. Lee's Lunch and East Side Nite club are to meet at North Lake park.

Field Stymied At 20 Teams

District softball teams have only until noon tomorrow to submit tournament entry blanks to district commissioner Stan Kamen.

Kamen said today that the entry listed was temporarily halted at the 20 teams of yesterday but that he expected a flood of teams to come in before the deadline. Several Marion nines have taken out entry blanks but have not returned them.

The tournament will open Monday night at Gorman - Rupp with the Girls' championship to be run off first. The affair must be over by Aug. 19 in order to let the champions compete in the state meet. Only three girls' teams have entered.

Mohican Racing Leaders Named

Leaders in the five classes at the Mohican Sailing club were announced today.

Top three skippers in each class follow: Lightning—Glenn Macy, Martin Brunner, Augie Grotegut; Interlake — Walter Wixon, Roger Roser, Carl Gabor; Sunray—A. Gabor, R. Batson, Egon Loeckel; Y Flyer—Fritz Constance, Milt Stenzel, Dick Tappan; Thistle — Harold Dysart, Lee Forup, Bob Fletcher.

May Sell Track

LOUISVILLE, Ky. — (UP) — Directors of Churchill Downs will meet Aug. 11 to discuss possibility of selling the famous racing track to a non-profit corporation.

Madison Club Raps Bellville In Loop Game

The Madison team of the Central Ohio junior league bombarded Bellville to the tune of 19-4 in a loop affair last night at Blue Goose park.

The game was somewhat of a contest for five and half innings until Madison broke it wide open with 12 runs in the sixth. Larry Secrist rapped out four hits in five times at bat to pace the Madison 16-hit attack.

Jim McMillan, meanwhile, held Bellville to three hits and struck out 12 men.

Dick Chapman In Golf Semis

SAINT JOHN, N. B. — (AP) — Dick Chapman of Pinehurst, N. C., lone American survivor in the Canadian amateur golf championships, meets young Laurie Roland of Vancouver in a semifinal match today.

The pair meet in 36 holes of match play. Roland is a 16-year-old high school student.

In the other semi-final, small but stocky Tommy Ridell of Montreal, who created the tournament's big upset by eliminating defending champion Frank Stranahan two days ago, opposes Toronto's Phil Farley.

Chapman, 1940 U. S. amateur titlist, yesterday won his quarter-finals match with Mike Pidlaski of Winnipeg, 2 and 1. Riddell defeated Bill Mawhinney of Vancouver, Canada's pre-tournament favorite, 2 up. Roland ousted Eddie Crowell, Halifax, 2 up, while Farley disposed of Allan Boes, Winnipeg, 1 up.

Play 20 Games

HIRAM — The basketball Terriers of Hiram college — under Coach Al Pesek, former athletic chief of Bucyrus High School, who came to Hiram after the close of the 1948-49 campaign — will play a 20-game intercollegiate schedule next season.

Lin Houston Seeks Return To First String Berth

BOWLING GREEN —(INS)— Big Lindell Houston, back for his fourth season with the All-America conference champion Cleveland Browns, is out to regain his first-string offensive right guard post which he lost last season.

Backfield Coach Blanton Collier's form charts and examinations of last season's movies forced Houston to give up his top spot to Bob Gaudio as the best offensive guard on the team.

Houston discovered that he had been weak on pass protection and Guard Coach Fritz Heisler went to work on him.

In speaking of the statistical study of the team's performances, Brown said:

"In Lin's case the study helped us improve his play by 40 per cent. We discovered he was lunging on pass plays instead of letting opponents come to him."

Ex-Michigan flash Gene Derricotte continued to set a dazzling pace at the Brown's Bowling Green University training camp.

Derricotte, in the left halfback position, caused Coach Collier to remark that "I never saw anyone in my four years with the Browns grasp the technique so rapidly."

Two Brownie candidates have already been dropped from the roster without having had on a uniform. They are John Schreiber of Marietta, a tackle, and Halfback Jim Dougherty of Cincinnati. Neither player reported to camp.

Battle Today

T. and E. Tavern and Penn Auto - Sporting Goods are to meet at 5:30 p. m. today at Blue Goose park. T. and E. won the only previous meeting of the two baseball teams by an 8-4 score.

Family Passes Secret of Perfect Cymbals Down Through Centuries

NEW YORK—The Avedis Zildjian family has held a secret for 326 years.

"We don't tell it to the women," said Zildjian. "The father tells it only to his eldest son, and in time he tells it to his eldest son. In this way we keep the secret."

The secret is how to make cymbals. That doesn't sound like much of a secret—but the cymbal isn't as simple as it sounds. You don't have to age a saxophone. You do a cymbal—it has to be mellowed like a good wine.

These musical noise-makers are as old as the Bible, but the Zildjian family has been manufacturing them only since 1623. It was in that year that the first Avedis Zildjian, a Constantinople alchemist, discovered a secret process for making an ideal cymbal metal from an alloy of tin, copper and silver.

Through the centuries the family developed almost a world monopoly in the manufacture of cymbals. They still dominate it.

"It is easy to analyze the alloy we use," said the current Avedis Zildjian. "But no one can put it together — and some of the biggest metal companies in the country have tried."

Zildjian, a 59-year-old Armenian who came to this country in 1909, has done more than any other single man to make the musical world cymbal-minded.

"When I started, the bands only used one kind of cymbal—a heavy one," he said. "Now we have 171 models in different weights and sizes."

His 12-man factory at Quincy, Mass., now turns out thousands of cymbals yearly. The work is all done by hand, and it takes 45 days to turn the rude metal ingots into sounding brass. They must be hand-hammered from four to six times.

"It isn't easy to hammer cymbals," said Zildjian. "It takes a man at least six years to become skillful."

★

The cymbals then are stored in vaults anywhere from six months to 20 years until each reaches its proper resonance. Zildjian now has 40,000 in the process of aging.

"And they have 40,000 different tones," he said. "Find two that are alike and I'll give you $1,000 — and the symbals, too. In 45 years in this business I've never heard two that sounded alike."

It is this variance in tone that accounts for the volume of the cymbal business. Professional drummers collect them like postage stamps.

"Harry Edison, the cymbalist for Toscanini, has three chests full — about 200," said Zildjian. "Jazz drummers used to use only one cymbal. Now they use six or seven."

Zildjian last year also began to manufacture gongs, and says he is the first man outside China to do so. It took him six months to make the first one. Now he is turning them out in 27 weights and sizes.

How long does a cymbal last?

"A hot drummer like Gene Krupa wears out a cymbal in two months," said Zildjian. "In Guy Lombardo's band, which plays softer music, a cymbal is good for at least two years.

"But in the Metropolitan Opera orchestra the cymbalist only goes 'crash, crash, kerplunk' maybe three times a night. His cymbals ought to last forever."

Tire Merger Ahead of Schedule

Production Gains At Plant Here

Consolidation of the production of Pennsylvania tires and tubes with the tires manufactured at the local Mansfield Tire and Rubber company plant is proceeding at a pace at least two weeks ahead of schedule, company officials said today.

Production of Pennsylvania Turnpike truck tires started last week, little more than two weeks after announcement of the merger of the local tire manufacturing plant with the Pennsylvania Rubber company of Jeannette, Pa. Earlier this week officials said that 25 more workers have been added to the production line.

Production of Pennsylvania passenger car tires began 24 hours after the consolidation became official.

Present plans call for establishing Pennsylvania's sales, advertising and other allied personnel in offices at Plant No. 3, immediately adjacent to the main Mansfield plant.

Tire manufacture at Jeannette will continue until all of the tire and tube production is integrated into the regular daily schedules here. Pennsylvania Rubber's nationally known line of athletic goods will continue to be produced at the Jeannette plant.

Meanwhile, company officials said all production of the plant will be closed down at quitting time today for the annual two-week vacation for employes. Only skeleton maintenance crews will be kept at the plant during the two - week period. Production will resume on Aug. 15.

HEADED FOR VERMONT—Mrs. Arthur Lamea of Hunt Ark., and her traveling menagerie of horses, goats, chickens and dogs, (above) rolled out Ashland road today on the fourth week of the cross-country trip to Green Mountains, Vermont. At left, Mrs. Lemea, native New Englander, says she wants to "take the horses back to where they were born." Apparently healthy hale and hearty, the sunburned pioneer woman of modern day, is shown above as she fondled one of her two young dogs.

'Peace' Moves Into Gangland As Trigger-Men Become Old and Gray

It so chanced that my early reporting nights threw me in with the birth of modern gangsterism, the commercial racketeering system, which ante-dated Prohibition but leaped on that Noble Experiment as manna from Hoodlums' Heaven.

Big Jim Colosimo, an immigrant from Sicily, put all the pieces together first, in Chicago. He foresaw that the essential components were force, with gat and ferocity; political drag, with the payoff; organization, with brains and efficiency and merciless management at the top; a few quick killings as advertising, so lugs would be softened up for the kick-in, and monopoly, so the take would be all the traffic could stand.

Colosimo closed in on vice, liquor, public contracts, labor unions (some of which he could in his day walk in on and take over cold, at the muzzle of a gun), gambling, boxing, corporations which had lucrative labor troubles or could have them set up for him (he would hook onto either side, depending on where the top dough lay), and from there to solid legitimate investments with the cash proceeds.

He expanded to where he required an executive vice-president, and he installed Johnny Torrio, his wife's nephew. When his interests expanded so he needed another trustworthy executive, Torrio brought on Al Capone, who had made his mark and had a mark made on him in Brooklyn.

Torrio was shot in the jaw as his car was forced to the curb. An attempt to assassinate him on a high floor of St. Luke's Hospital nearly succeeded. Johnny took the fire escape, beat it to New York in his pajamas, and fled to Italy. Capone moved up and in. Capon became a figure of world-wide notoriety.

With Capone's conviction and incarceration in Alcatraz, a somewhat new era emerged. His heirs and successors were as greedy as ever, but not as imaginative or daring.

But they were hoodlums in their hearts and could not resist the cushy cash they knew so well how to get. So they compromised. They retained enough of the outlaw habits to shake down more millions, but they pulled in their horns on the roughest of the old stuff.

They have a national organization, a trust, in which all regional chiefs hold stock in certain pooled enterprises, allotted in proportion to services and stature. Of this combine, Charlie "Lucky" Luciano, who steered it through, holds the largest share and is still the last word, though he is ostensibly a deported and harassed exile in Italy.

Above "Lucky" is a board of directors, gray-haired ex-gangsters who now live on luxurious suburban estates.

These are facts. But they are far less glamorous than the tales of old, blazing chronicles of sawed - off shotguns and portable machine - guns, the "taken - for a- a -ride" and "Put - on - the - spot" techniques.

Those now bear the fingerprints of punks. The well - behaved gangman of 1949 scorns them, except in the most aggravated instances. The flaming torpedo that thrilled and scandalized the globe is gray, bald and scared. I am looking around for something more spectacular. One must make a living.

Rites Set For Hero

The body of one of Mansfield's war heroes will be returned to Ohio for re-burial next week.

Military rites for John E. robinette, son of Mrs. Adeline Robinette; 385 Newman street, will be held at the Beck funeral home in Bowling Green at 2:30 p. m. Tuesday. Burial will be at Bever Creek.

Robinette, a hero of the famed Bataan death march, died in a Japanese prison camp Nov. 10, 1942. He was 28.

He entered service in 1941 and was a private first class in the 192nd tank battalion in the Army at the time of his capture by the Japanese. Robinette was one of six Mansfielders in the tank battalion who were in the Bataan death march. Only two of them returned.

A former resident of Bowling Green, Robinette was living in Mansfield and was an employe of the Westinghouse Electric corporation at the time he entered service.

In addition to his mother, he is survived by four sisters, Mrs. Lena Kern and Mrs. Ledra Sowash, both of Mansfield, Mrs. Bessie Yoder of Lima, and Mrs. Glady sEmd e ofBowling Green, and two brothers, Orville Robinette of Bowling Green, and Chester Robinette of West Salem.

Takes Her Horses Back To Vermont

★ ★ ★

A make-shift wagon, containing a small menagerie of goats, chickens and dogs, rolled along under "two horse power" out Ashland road this morning. The strange looking vehicle had come from Arkansas.

A sun burned New England woman, who identified herself as Mrs. Arthur Lamea shifted on the burlap-covered wagon seat and stated:

"I want to take the horses back to where they was born."

The fly-molested horses, hitched to the wagon, nonchalantly pulled at the weeds beside the highway. So did a small colt, fastened to the team by a strap.

Mrs. Lamea, who is sort of a pioneer woman in reverse—she's going east—said she's headed for the Green mountains, Vermont. That's where the horses were born, she said. About two years ago she made the same trip out west to Arkansas.

She gave no reason for her change of mind.

Behind her in the boarded-up wagon, 12 goats munched on hay and 25 chickens clucked and fluttered in their pens.

"Made it this far in three weeks," she said, petting a puppy that bore relationship to a shepherd. "We drink goat's milk on the way and once in a while I stop and get something hot to eat."

CARRIES HAY STACK

Usual fare for the goats and horses was the hay carried on the wagon. Also piled with the hay were several rubber tires, "extras" for the tires on the wagon.

Mrs. Lamea, also secretive about her age, smoothed the wrinkles from her faded green house dress, and brushed back her greying hair. A dried up elm branch, used as switch for the horses, swayed in the breeze.

Asked if passage through cities ever became a problem, she answered in her New England matter-of-fact tone:

"Oh, just keep goin'—just like everywhere else."

Blames Child In Garage Fire

Blame for the fire which destroyed a one-car garage shortly after noon yesterday at the Gail Kern Home, 394 McPherson street, today rested on the not-so-broad shoulders of a four-year-old McPherson street boy.

Kern notified police at 7:30 p. m. yesterday that the boy had been playing with matches in the garage and that he believed the youngster started the blaze.

However, the child's father, contacted by police, said the boy was with him when the fire was first noticed. The father added that the boy had been corrected several times about playing with matches.

Decide Fate Of Building

State Inspector To Meet With Weldon

Fate of the Weldon building, Fourth and Main streets, heavily damaged by fire early Monday, is expected to be decided late today, Fire Chief L. J. Steele said.

So far, no recommendations either for the repair or rebuilding of the structure have been made by state inspectors, the chief added.

The chief said H. J. Bayer, building inspector for the State Department of Public Relations, was to meet with William M. Weldon jr., owner of the building at Fourth and Main streets. Chief Steele said a representative of the state fire marshal's office also made an inspection of the damaged structure but no recommendation has been made.

An estimated $100,000 of damage was done to the structure by the blaze which broke out in the rear center of the building about 5 a. m. Monday.

The chief said earlier this week that he "would like to see a new fireproof building go up on the site."

The fire, which the chief believed started in the Hobby Center, spread through the rear portion of the second and third floors, causing $30,000 damage to the Sutter Candy company and from $1,000 to $10,000 damage to five other offices and shops in the structure.

4 More File For Offices

Four more men have filed for school board and village offices, subject to the general election in November.

Two filed for places on the Plymouth school board. They are John F. Root and J. H. Cashman.

Walter Pritchard filed his nominating petition for the Lucas school board while J. Ben Smith filed for Plymouth councilman.

HAZARDS OF DRINK

One of the better-known elderly patrons of a local tavern made his usual visit several nights ago. After about "one too many" he ordered a sandwich, but couldn't handle his false teeth. He carefully placed the teeth on the bar and finished his sandwich. Then he left. The teeth were forgotten. The bartender wrapped the teeth and put them in a safe place. Later the toothless gent entered the tavern and looked carefully around the bar and tables. But he didn't say anything. Neither did anyone else. He shook his head and walked out. The bartender said he was going to return the teeth to the man the next night he stopped in.

BACK FROM TRIP —

Miss Margaret Oswalt, county board of education secretary, and Mrs. Alice Deibner, deputy in the clerk of courts office, were back at work today after a week's vacation in Kentucky and Tennessee. They visited Miss Oswalt's twin sister, Mrs. Albert Kipp, at Murray, Ky. They went fishing at Lake Kentucky, considered the largest man-made lake in the world, said Miss Oswalt. Their fishing expeditions resulted in the catching of "several" fish, Mrs. Deibner said, adding that they also "left some in the lake."

During the picnic there will be hourly bus service to the park starting from Fourth and Main streets, at 2 p. m. and continuing until 8 p. m.

Lunch and refreshments will be served and from 2 to 4 p. m. pony rides and various other forms of entertainment will be enjoyed by the children. Dancing for the adults will start at 4 and continue until 11 p. m. with the Skulski band playing. The picnic is open to the public.

Final Session Today

Fight Hinted On Quail Bill

BULLETIN—

COLUMBUS—Gov. Frank J. Lausche today signed one bill approved by the Ohio legislature, and vetoed another. The governor signed a bill raising by half the amount of money cities and counties get from the three per cent sales tax. He vetoed a measure authorizing State Auditor Joseph T. Ferguson to make pre-audits of counties anl cities poor relief expenditures.

COLUMBUS—(AP)—The 98th General Assembly — lauded and lambasted as the best and the worst—returned to the capitol today for its final session.

If one legislative group has its way, this legislative swan song may contain at least one discordant note.

Rep. Lowell Fess (R-Greene) is reported spearheading a movement to give Gov. Frank J. Lausche the bird over his veto of the bill that would have taken quail off the songbird list and made them game birds.

Fess, it is reported in statehouse corridors, has been mailing letters to fellow legislators, asking their attendance at the final adjournment session and their vote to override Lausche's veto.

Legislators must muster 81 votes in the House and 20 in the Senate, a three-fifths vote. Final sessions often are not attended by enough legislators to override vetoes.

VETOES SIX BILLS

Governor Lausche, with several major bills still on his desk, has used his veto six times; twice on bills of major interest. In addition to the quail measure, the governor also turned thumbs down on the uniform municipal court bill.

Four others that felt the axe: House Bill 353 which would have required county auditors or boards of tax appeals to give 10 days notice to owners of properties which either planned to remove from the tax exemption list.

Senate Bill 336 which would have hiked salaries of referees of the bureau of unemployment compensation to a maximum of $6,000 from a present maximum of $4,500.

House Bill 479 which would have removed aircraft from taxable property lists and provided for registration and licensing of aircraft.

Senate Bill 379 which dealt with soldiers' and sailors' relief.

Governor Lausche still must act on—or allow to become law without his signature — several major proposals. These include pre-auditing of county poor relief by the state auditor, aid to local governments, voting machines and establishment of a government study commission to replace the postwar planning commission.

Truck Driver, 3 Others Fined

Driver of a small truck was arrested for driving while under the influence of alcohol and three passengers were arrested for intoxication by police at 9:36 p. m. yesterday when officers saw the truck following an uncertain course on East Sixth street.

Robert Clark, of Millsboro road, driver of the truck, was fined $75 and costs and his right to drive was suspended for six months when he appeared before Acting Judge James V. Will today in municipal court.

Fined $5 and costs each for intoxication were Edward Pathgeb, 44, of North Main street, Ray Lee Deen, 35, of Portsmouth and Raymond W. Jones, 45, of Newark.

Services Set For Mallett Child

Funeral services for Donna Jean Mallett, eight-week-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Raymond D. Mallett, 627 Johns avenue, will be held at 1 p. m. Saturday at the Wappner funeral home. Rev. A. F. Lindbeck, pastor of the Mayflower Congregational church, will officiate. Burial will be in the cemetery at Ankenytown, Knox county.

Industrial Accident Rate In City Shows Decline

The accident rate in industry and business took a sharp decline during June, according to the Mansfield Chamber of Commerce Safety Council report.

Only 11 accidents were reported during the month as compared with an average of almost 20 accidents for the first five months of the year. The accident severity rate during June was 4.68, compared with the accumulative average of 6.40.

Of the 11 accidents in June only four caused a loss of more than seven days time. During the first five months of the year Mansfield averaged 11 accidents causing more than seven days lost time.

Institutions and firms on the June Safety Honor roll were Senior High school, Mansfield Fire department, Ohio Fuel Gas company, Page Dairy company, Yellow Stripe Cab company, Westinghouse Electric corporation, Hartman Electric Manufacturing company, Richland Shale Brick company, Swan Cleaners, Brandenburg - Chevrolet company, Mansfield - Leland hotel, M. O'Neil company and the Standard Oil company.
